FBI Denies Swainson Kin Files Found

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — A special prosecutor who claimed he had found missing files containing charges against a nephew of Michigan Supreme Court Justice John Swainson is mistaken, Michigan's top FBI agent said Thursday.

Neil Welch, agent-in-charge of the FBI's Detroit office, denied Thursday the material had been found.

The report came from Eric Goodwin, a Coldwater attorney serving as a special Branch County prosecutor probing the missing material. Goodwin told reporters the FBI had held the records, but that he had current possession.

"We straightened him out," an FBI spokesman said, explaining some papers involving Swainson had been held by the FBI and were returned. But, the spokesman said, the material was not that sought by Goodwin.

In his earlier report, Goodwin said police at Union City gave the files to the FBI, and that he had them back.

Meanwhile, County Sheriff Keith Wilhelm said he had never been notified the files concerning Kenneth Wilson, 22, of Fort Myers, Fla., were missing from the office of Prosecutor J. Richard Colbeck.

Colbeck reported last Thursday the files and a personal letter from Swainson, Wilson's uncle, were missing when agents from a federal Organized Crime Strike Force asked to see them.

Since a county commission investigation of the prosecutor is under way, Colbeck asked a special prosecutor be appointed to probe the mystery.

Christine Freese, Colbeck's secretary, said she gave some records to Union City Police Chief Ted Blue after the Wilson case concluded last August.

Blue, she said, told her federal authorities wanted the records because they were considering filing federal weapon charges against Wilson, an action subsequently taken.

Swainson has admitted calling Colbeck about his nephew's case. At the time, Colbeck was under investigation by a State Bar grievance panel for failing to file income tax returns. Eventually, Colbeck drew a 20-day suspension on the charge. He never appealed the discipline to the Supreme Court as he might have.

Swainson insisted he merely checked on Wilson as a relative rather than in an official capacity. Wilson and two others were arrested by Union City police on charges of possessing burglar tools and carrying concealed weapons.

Last week, Swainson suspended himself from court activities after refusing to discuss an unrelated bribery accusation before a federal grand jury.

Charges in Branch County eventually were dismissed against Wilson and the others. But police said later they found a sawed-off 12-gauge shotgun with Wilson, who has since been charged with possessing an unregistered weapon. That charge brought Wilson to federal court Thursday in Grand Rapids for arraignment. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Wilson stood mute at his arraignment. No date was set for further proceedings.

Clad in blue jeans and a jacket of the same material,

Wilson told the court he came to Grand Rapids while on leave from the Coast Guard. He said he would need help from the Red Cross to return to his ship. Only a counselor from a local center for ex-convicts accompanied him to court.

Turks Hit U.S.; Portugal Loyal

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Some European leaders praised President Ford today for his reaffirmation of support to the NATO allies, but Turkey's premier attacked America's arms ban against his country as a "self-destructive act."

Gen. Vasco Goncalves, Portugal's leftist premier, was quoted as asking the allies for "more comprehension and less apprehension" and defending Portugal's approaches to the Soviet Union. He also promised that Portugal would remain a loyal ally, and said there had been too much talk in the West about its affairs.

The speeches were delivered behind closed doors and spokesmen furnished accounts of them to newsmen.

In his denunciation of the U.S. arms embargo against his nation, Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel of Turkey did not mention the United States by name but included strong words against the embargo.

"If we admit that the threat we are facing continues, that the contribution of Turkey is as important as it was in the past, it is very difficult to find any justification capable of explaining this self-destructive act," he said.

His attitude has been endorsed by a number of other NATO members.

The Ford administration has been trying to get the embargo lifted.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain told Ford the loyalty of the United States to its European allies was never in doubt, despite setbacks to American policy.

Wilson said he welcomed the President's reassurance of support at the opening Thursday of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's two-day summit meeting.

French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues called NATO "the bulwark of our security" and echoed Wilson in saying that the French never doubted America's loyalty to its pledges.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said, "The President of the United States yesterday pointed out the problems of the alliance in an important contribution."

He said he took satisfaction in the President's statement that the United States would not unilaterally reduce its 300,000 troops in Western Europe.

"You may be assured, that in these times when the United States carries the especially heavy burden of world wide responsibility, we too stand at your side; you can rely just as much on us," Schmidt told Ford.

Aldo Moro, Italy's premier, said, "The solidarity reaffirmed by President Ford has become alive and operative for all."

In his speech on Thursday, Ford conceded that the Communist victories in South Vietnam and Cambodia "have led some to question our strength and reliability."

"I believe that our strength speaks for itself," he declared, "our military power remains, and will continue to remain, second to none. Of this let there be no doubt. Our economy remains fundamentally sound and productive, and our political system has emerged from the shocks of the past year stronger for the way in which it met a severe internal test."

He assured the allies "the United States of America, unconditionally and unequivocally, remains true to the commitments undertaken when we signed the North Atlantic Treaty, including the obligation in Article 5 to come to the assistance of any NATO nation subjected to armed attack."

Turning to problems facing the alliance, he called for maintenance of a "strong and credible defense" and more effective use of defense resources, including standardization of procedures and equipment.

Hitting at France and Greece, he called for "unqualified participation" in the alliance, not "partial membership or special arrangements." He also said "we should begin now to consider how to relate Spain with Western defense" and added: "Spain has already made, and continues to make, an important contribution to Western military security as a result of its

Berrien Tentatively Splits Pot Of Gold

Berrien county commissioners yesterday tentatively divided more than $1 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for 1975-76 among 13 organizations and projects, with the largest share going to county capital improvements.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, comprised of chairmen from the county board's various committees, the group tentatively voted shares of the $1,066,665 total to seven projects which received revenue-sharing funds last year and funded six new categories.

The appropriations still need final approval by the entire county board, which holds its next meeting June 19.

The total for 1975-76 is up from last year's $1,017,829, and County Com. Roger Petrie said there was no specific reason why Berrien received more funds this year, except that funding is based on a complicated revenue-sharing formula.

The biggest chunk of the money went to capital improvements, which tentatively will get $310,665, compared with last year's $200,000. Petrie said the funds will be put in with the county's capital improvements appropriation in the next budget.

Petrie said nothing definite is planned for the capital improvements share, but that it will be held in case of an emergency, "in case we get in a jam with the jail, or somewhere else."

Organizations or projects funded for the first time this year include: Solid waste program, $225,000; Berrien county nature preserve, $15,000; aerial survey, $5,000; Berrien county senior citizens' centers, $25,000; safety council bicycle safety program, $3,000; and Berrien Youth fair, $10,000. Also funded (with last year's figures in parentheses) were: Economic development council, $80,000 ($56,000); Berrien General hospital, $118,000 ($260,000); Safety Council Safety mobile, $7,000 ($5,850); county computer system, $216,000 ($177,000); Berrien County historical society, $29,000 ($20,000); and Ross field, $25,000 ($20,000).

Autopsy Today In Girl's Death

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — An autopsy was scheduled today in an effort to learn what caused the death of a Grand Valley State College student.

A friend found the body of Laurel Jean Ellis, 20, of River-side, Ill., in her Grand Rapids apartment Thursday night. Police said the woman apparently was strangled. She had been dead several days.

She was a pre-law student at the college in nearby Allendale.

Doctors Postpone Slowdown

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — Doctors in Wexford and Muskegon counties have postponed their plans to limit services because of the malpractice insurance problem.

At a meeting Thursday, the doctors extended the cutoff date from June 1 to mid-June or possibly whenever the state Legislature recesses.

Despite the recent creation of insurance pools by both the State of Michigan and the Michigan Medical Society, the Cadillac-area doctors said they remain dissatisfied about efforts to solve the problem.

Charge Acid Thrown In Student's Face

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A 18-year-old Niles high school sophomore remained hospitalized today after eight ounces of acid was thrown into his face yesterday in the school's parking lot, Niles police said.

Another student, Perry Skinner, 17, 1245 Rose drive drive, Niles, was taken into custody and was scheduled to be arraigned today in Fifth District court here on a charge of assault to do bodily harm less than murder, according to police. He is a senior at the school. Police said the victim, Keith Lintz, 899 Randall avenue, Niles, was rushed to Pawating hospital, Niles, after he was given first aid treatment by the school's athletic trainer. Hospital authorities said the youth was suffering from second and third degree burns on his face and listed his condition as good this morning. His eyes were uninjured, a spokesman added.

Police said the incident followed an argument.

According to officers, Skinner left the parking area but returned about 1 p.m. where he was taken into custody.

Police said the acid was believed to be the same as the battery acid used in the high school shop classes.

SMALL, ROOMY, SAFE

Car Design Looks To 80s

DETROIT (AP) — A Buffalo, N.Y., research firm has completed a preliminary design for a small but roomy safety vehicle it says may be the forerunner of the typical American family car of the 1980s.

The Calspan Corp. car, slightly larger than current American subcompacts, is based on a model Chrysler Corp. plans to introduce in Europe this fall and may be a prototype of a small car Chrysler plans to introduce in the U.S. in the late 1970s.

The safety vehicle will weigh about 2,700 pounds, seat five adults, and get about 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline. It will have front-wheel drive, a front-mounted four-cylinder engine with a cruising speed of 80 miles per hour. Top speed will be 80 m.p.h.

Dr. Patrick Miller, Calspan's principal researcher, said the design may become the basis for the average family car of the 1980s because of increasing emphasis on fuel and material conservation.

Calspan did not indicate how much the car might cost.

The safety car, designed with assistance from Chrysler, was unveiled this week at a U.S.

Department of Transportation hearing in Washington.

The car is the result of a 15-month project to design a safety vehicle under a $352,000 grant from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which is supervising a research safety vehicle program.

Chrysler officials said the Calspan car is close to the dimensions of a car Chrysler's French subsidiary, Simca, will put on the European market as a 1976 model this fall.

Miller said the design places primary emphasis on safety features aimed at reducing injuries, particularly in high-speed crashes.

He said the vehicle will include improved front-end and side protection, a "soft-face" front end to reduce injury hazards to pedestrians struck by cars, and relocation of the fuel tank to lessen the risk of fire.

In addition, the car has been designed for tires that can operate at low speeds if they flatten, thus eliminating the need for a spare.

BLACK RIVER AT SOUTH HAVEN

Park Dedication Saturday

SOUTH HAVEN — Dedication ceremonies for the new South Haven Black river park and boat launching ramps will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. The $165,000 project was funded by the city with support from the Michigan Waterways commission and federal government. Court Sidelips

Tax Assessments

While a delegation from the St. Joseph court house was in Lansing on Tuesday trying to argue the State Tax Commission out of a 4 1/2 per cent inflation factor in Berrien county's total assessment for property tax purposes, an upcountry judge took a more direct route.

Circuit Judge Joseph Swallow whose territory includes Montmorency county issued a permanent injunction against the Commission forbidding it to install any valuation for this year.

Since the Montmorency authorities did not follow the routine sketched by the legislature in protesting assessments before going into court, it is doubtful if either the Appeals Court or the Michigan Supreme Court, whichever first hears the Commission's appeal, will sustain Judge Swallow.

If, however, the lightning should strike twice or thrice, depending upon the judicial appeal routing, local government and the schools could be in hot water.

Ed Kane, the Commission's executive secretary, exclaimed that no one would be paying property taxes this if Judge Swallow's opinion holds up.

This is crying wolf a bit early because Judge Swallow's authority does not apply to Michigan's other 82 counties and even if the higher courts should sustain him, the legislature could adopt an interim assessing formula to forestall financial starvation on the local level.

The squabble is interesting, however, from two standpoints.

It is a case of David doing battle with Goliath.

Montmorency county lies directly, east and west, between Alpena and Gaylord. Its 1975 population is projected at 5,578 which puts it in the middle between Buchanan and Dowagiac. Atlanta, the largest town and the county seat, has 450 persons residing within the village limits. Farming and catering to fishermen, hunters and cottagers are the county's source of income. Other than the farms, the only other known natural resource is several good sized inland lakes.

Stated simply, it is a great place to get away from it all, but not a spot likely to produce many millionaires.

No doubt, it is such statistics which cause Secretary Kane to borrow on the superlatives to describe what horrors Judge Swallow is bringing down upon a statewide institution.

Even more interesting is the action taken by Judge Swallow.

The basis of the county's suit is that Montmorency's real estate already is assessed up to the 50 per cent ceiling of the true cash value as permitted in the state constitution. Therefore, the Commission's increase proposed for Montmorency and 22 other counties is illegal on its face.

In ruling as he did, Judge Swallow is the first jurist in recent times to challenge the Commission's method in determining what is "true cash value."

In the process he goes against a number of supreme court decisions saying, in effect, that the Commission has a wide latitude in defining the phrase.

As this column has noted on several occasions, pinpointing true cash value for land, buildings, machinery and equipment, inventories and so on is not the simple process of trading securities on a stock exchange. For that reason the definition has to follow somewhat configurations and inevitably will be arbitrary in some degree.

The goal consequently has to be one of reasonableness.

This is where the Commission and Judge Swallow, plus many others, part company.

The complaint is particularly acute this year because the Commission is applying an inflation factor to the existing base. It says that market values in 1975 are X percentage points over the 1974 levels.

Quite apparently the Commission has not been out and around in the marketplace.

Judges are not supposed to be either; yet one of them displays a better understanding of things than the so-called experts.

It is probably too much to hope for, but the appellate courts in ruling on his opinion should explore in depth the arcane methods by which the Commission arrives at taxable valuation.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

JUNIOR MISS OFFICIAL RESPONDS

Editor,

Two letters to the Editor, one from Ms. Trudy Walker and one from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shoemaker, published in the May 23, 1975 issue of The Herald-Palladium call for responses to questions regarding participation of Marina Shoemaker, 1975 Twin Cities Junior Miss, in this year's Blossomtime activities.

While the questions were not and have not been communicated directly to Twin Cities Junior Miss Pageant, Inc. the inference seems clear that that organization is being asked to respond.

Our statement, also published in the May 23, 1975 issue of The Herald-Palladium, regarding the absence of a float in the Blossomtime Parade was made without benefit of knowledge of the text of the letters and therefore was, perhaps, not fully responsive to all of the questions raised by Ms. Walker and the Shoemakers.

Ms. Walker was "puzzled as to why there was not a float for the Twin Cities Junior Miss in this year's Blossom Parade!"

There has never been a float in the Blossom Parade for the Twin Cities Junior Miss. The only float in a Blossom parade on which a Twin Cities Junior Miss representative rode was in the 1972 Blossom Parade in which a float sponsored by the Lakeshore and South Haven Jaycees and Twin Cities Junior Miss Pageant, Inc. carried the Lakeshore and South Haven Junior Misses and Twin Cities Junior Miss First Runner-up. The Twin Cities Junior Miss that year was also Michigan's Junior Miss and was in Mobile, Ala. at the time of the Blossom Parade competing for the title of America's Junior Miss.

That float also appeared in the South Haven Blueberry Festival

Parade and the Coloma Gladiolus Festival Parade. The purpose of the float was to promote local Junior Miss Pageants in this area.

Current members of the Twin Cities Junior Miss organization are not aware of any other Blossom Parade in which a Twin Cities Junior Miss rode in a car or otherwise participated in official Blossomtime activities.

Twin Cities Junior Miss and Blossomtime activities are separate in time and purpose. The Twin Cities Junior Miss program has been conducted in the fall and has been local in nature, while Blossomtime is a spring activity and encompasses several communities in southwestern Michigan.

We feel our organization has done a superior job of conducting a local Junior Miss program but it is not equipped, nor has its purpose been, to join in Blossomtime activities. We believe our sponsors' support is better served by providing college scholarships than by financing Blossom Parade floats.

Bond's Obstacle

Green, Not Black

WASHINGTON — For years friends of Georgia state legislator Julian Bond have told him he could become the first black president in American history. Now that the man has apparently begun to believe it himself, he is finding that his prophets are without money. Bond himself is broke; his friends can contribute little. Thus, what could become at least a serious black presidential campaign remains buried in an Atlanta basement, willing, ready but so far unable.

Officially, Bond is an unannounced candidate. He says he will announce next month if he can find $100,000 committed to his cause, but that possibility at present looks slim. His brother James, double O seven, an Atlanta city councilman and Bond campaign director, says that the good news is that $5,000 in gifts has been raised, but the bad news is it has all been spent.

"We're working out of the basement in my mother's home. We've got 20 volunteers or so and we're setting up people in some other states. But it's difficult because so far we're just raising enough money to meet expenses. Julian is going like hell, making speeches. He made 22 just last month. But some of that money goes for his own personal expenses, he's got five kids, you know, so we're hopeful but not at the moment rich."

Besides the present difficulties in raising campaign cash, Bond faces future problems caused by the newly enacted — and controversial campaign finance reform act. For the first time the U.S. government is meddling more than a little in political campaigns, and Bond may be one of those most affected.

His people are among legions who believe that, among other things, the finance reform act discriminates against moderate income candidates.

Gene McCarthy, former Minnesota senator and currently another unwealthy presidential hopeful, has joined in a suit against the campaign act, charging that it is unconstitutional. As to the issue of rich vs. unrich candidates, McCarthy says the act provides that a rich one may contribute up to $50,000 to his own campaign, whereas an unrich candidate has to do without such personal generosity. Since a nonwealthy candidate cannot legally solicit this one lump $50,000 from another source (the law prohibits outside gifts in excess of $2,000 to any presidential campaigner), he obviously has at least this substantial disadvantage.

Besides this, the Bond people point out, the portion of the new law entitling qualified presidential primary candidates to receive matching funds for every private dollar raised, also benefits the rich more than anyone else. Since the government will match private individual donations up to $250, and since a rich candidate is more likely to have more donors able to give $250, his chances of getting more matching funds far exceed the campaigner who relies mostly on $1 to $5 contributions.

Thus it is that the idea of Julian Bond For President faces so many obstacles, traditional and now legal, that it may not become more than a bumper sticker slogan. Not this time around, anyway. And yet his friends keep plugging. Maurice Dees, a direct mail whiz, is lending advice to the Bond group; and Ken Body, a Chicagoan respected for his abilities in wooing convention delegates, is said to be coming to Atlanta soon. "Things are picking up," says brother James, "our phone is ringing more now."

Congress Waiting

For Sky To Fall

WASHINGTON — Why is the House of Representatives having so much difficulty enacting an energy package that would raise the Federal gasoline tax and impose other measures to conserve fuel?

Congressmen and women are back in their home districts this week seeking guidance, and perhaps they will return from their holiday with new insight and purpose. Then, again, perhaps they will come back as confused as they appeared to have been when they left after hastily postponing a vote on energy legislation.

It would be easy to make sweeping generalizations from the current House performance, and some of them might even be true. The energy crisis is so complicated, not everybody is even convinced that one exists. The House Democratic majority lacks powerful leadership, and Congress as an institution is a rather decrepit old thing. Politicians never take dramatic steps unless the sky is falling, and it is only clouded over at the moment.

But Congressional reluctance to face up to the energy problem also has a simpler explanation.

A majority of Congressmen and women are grappling now with the politically sensitive issue of a major tax increase for the first time in their national careers. The turnover in Congress in recent years has been so enormous that 238 out of the 435 members were elected in 1980 or later.

And the energy measure, as proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee, represents the first important tax boost to be put before Congress since these new members arrived.

A tax increase is a painful thing, no matter what its purpose or necessity. Hence, the Democratic House leadership postponed a vote on a bill last week before adjourning for a long Memorial Day holiday, out of fear that otherwise it might have been killed.

The bill would have imposed an additional three cents per gallon tax on gasoline, provided a standby additional gasoline tax of 20 cents per gallon to be determined by consumption standards, and imposed a graduated tax, beginning in 1978, on new automobiles which fall below certain fuel mileage standards.

Although international complications make the energy crisis difficult for ordinary citizens to comprehend, Congressional passage of the measure worked out by Ways and Means, which is scarcely a radical committee, would seem to be the responsible course.

But action is fraught with political danger and it is so easy to do nothing. If energy conditions worsen, part of the buck can be passed on to President Ford (who, of course, is already trying to pass it on to Congress). And the public displays no urgent concern about energy, telling pollsters that the depressed economy and other issues are more important. Nor do voters show any inclination to make personal sacrifices for the sake of conservation, such as paying more for gasoline.

The new legislators on Capitol Hill are generally younger, more progressive, more independent and more responsive to a broad constituency than were their aging predecessors. But many of them, particularly this year's freshmen, also represent marginal districts in which their victories were due as much to the political upheaval spawned by the Nixon crimes as to their own charms. They are, therefore, particularly itchy about re-election.

SCHOOL MONEY UNSPENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large portion of the federal money available for needy college students again has gone unspent and the administration wants to carry over the funds for the school year beginning in the fall.

Restoring The Value Of Achieving Excellence

There is a major difference in the employment situation the June graduation class is encountering, but it is too late now for the members to prepare for it. That is the exceptionally high premium this year on outstanding abilities.

Many educators will say, "about time," to the renewed interest in the better-than-average student. Too long the tendency has been toward a degree for the sake of a piece of paper; too long has the superior student been frowned upon by a segment of society as some kind of freak, worthy perhaps of consideration, but seldom priority. Both of these faults, of course, were the result of labor shortages so acute — particularly in the technical fields — that employers were bidding against one another for employees from student bodies, many of whom were a year or more from graduation.

Employers are still accepting personnel fresh from the college campus, but they are less hasty in their acceptance of everyone who walks into their employment offices with a degree in his hand. They now insist that the ability behind the degree be more than minimal.

Human Jaw Is Shrinking

From the chairman of the department of orthodontics at Michigan University comes the not especially reassuring news that evolution is taking its toll on the human jaw.

"Our whole facial structure below the eyes is falling to pieces," is the way Dr. James Harris put it. Aside from the obvious challenges a continuation of that change will present to dentists, it somewhat changes the image heretofore presented of the man of the future.

He may be bigger than his forebears, but he won't necessarily be better. As far as human evolution is concerned, are these the good old days future generations will hark back to?

New Budget Dips $7,047 In Watervliet

WATERVLIET — Watervliet city commission last night adopted a 1975-76 budget of $440,284, down $7,047 from the current budget of $447,331.

The city's present 15-mill property tax rate will remain unchanged for the coming year. The levy will account for $160,378 of the revenue needed to meet the budget. The balance will come from self-supporting funds and state and federal sources.

Budget approval came after a public hearing attended only by commission members.

Included in the budget were proposed seven to eight per cent pay hikes for city employees and the city assessor and treasurer. The pay raises must yet be approved by the commission.

If approved, the assessor's yearly salary would be increased from $1,320 to $1,500 while the treasurer's salary would increase from $1,500 to $1,650. Salaries of city commissioners and the mayor remain unchanged.

Only one change was made since the tentative budget was introduced at the commission's May 6 meeting.

A reduction from $40,000 to $35,000 for contractual services with the Paw Paw Lake sewage treatment plant was approved. The commission learned the city's share of operating the plant would total nearer $35,000. The $5,000 savings reduced the city's share of the budget from $19,839 to $14,839.

The commission approved paying a bill withheld during their May 6 meeting to Indiana and Michigan Electric company amounting to $1,319.

The commission instructed Clerk Fred Johnson to write two letters asking for explanations of a $3,200 increase in the original bid of the Chicago Iron and Bridge company for a new water tank, part of a new water improvement project. The second letter is to go to the city's engineer seeking answers for a bill he submitted for revising original plans in the water improvement project.

Prison Doctors Threaten Revolt

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Health care for inmates at Southern Michigan Prison by University of Michigan doctors will end June 9 unless the state pays more than $38,000 in back fees, says a U-M physician.

Dr. Jay K. Harness, medical director of the University of Michigan Intern and Residents Association Health Care Delivery Project, said the physicians supply more than 50 per cent of the treatment given at the prison. He said no payments have been received since January.

He said the project is the only one of its kind in the nation.

Harness made his comments about withdrawal of services to Perry Johnson, director of the Department of Corrections, and to Sen. Earl Nelson, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A House bill appropriating funds for health care at the prison currently is reported stalled in the Senate. Corrections department funds to pay for medical services ran out last December.

About 40 doctors in the 500-member association are involved in the project, according to Harness, who says the association was asked to help at the prison when the department was unable to fill five fulltime positions.

Family Services To Honor Fred, Stephen Upton

Stephen E. Upton of St. Joseph will be among 23 people honored for outstanding service to Child and Family Services of Michigan at "Recognition Dinner" Friday in Lansing.

Upton has served as board member of the Southwestern branch of Child and Family Services and as president of the board for the past five years.

Upton's father, Frederick S. Upton, St. Joseph, will also receive a recognition award as a patron of the agency.

Edward Tiscornia, new president of the board, cited Stephen Upton for his efforts to put the agency on a firmer financial basis. When Upton became president, Tiscornia said, the agency had a severe deficit and during his tenure the deficit has been reduced to a manageable level.

Tiscornia said: "His support and interest are well above the normal expectations of board membership, both financially and morale wise. In addition he and his wife, Elizabeth, have served as temporary foster parents when the agency needed such help."

Child and Family Services of Michigan is a statewide, non-sectarian social agency with 15 branches offering a comprehensive program including individual and family counseling, foster care, adoption, problem pregnancy and homemaker services.

Update The 'Go Now And Later' Vacation Idea

Designer Gives Dos And Don'ts

The "go now, pay later" vacation plan for America's free-wheeling credit card days has been updated by a "go now and later" idea which makes more sense in our investment-conscious times.

The live-for-the-moment attitude of the '60s has been forced to take a long-term view in the harsh reality of economic hard times. Even the frivolities — like vacations — have taken on a new seriousness.

Planning for now and later is especially important for the empty nesters, who, while they have more options than ever, must plan for a retirement that will no doubt be fraught with inflation. One of the best ways to enjoy both the present and the future is to invest in a retreat for short-term vacations now and full-term retirement living later. This more practical '70s approach is geared to sense and cents.

There are, however, many pitfalls to avoid in planning a dual-purpose home and many positive steps to take to achieve a worry-free now and then retreat.

The location, price, size and style of the home itself are personal considerations which deserve family discussion. Beyond these major decisions are what designer Roz Mallin calls the "inside particulars."

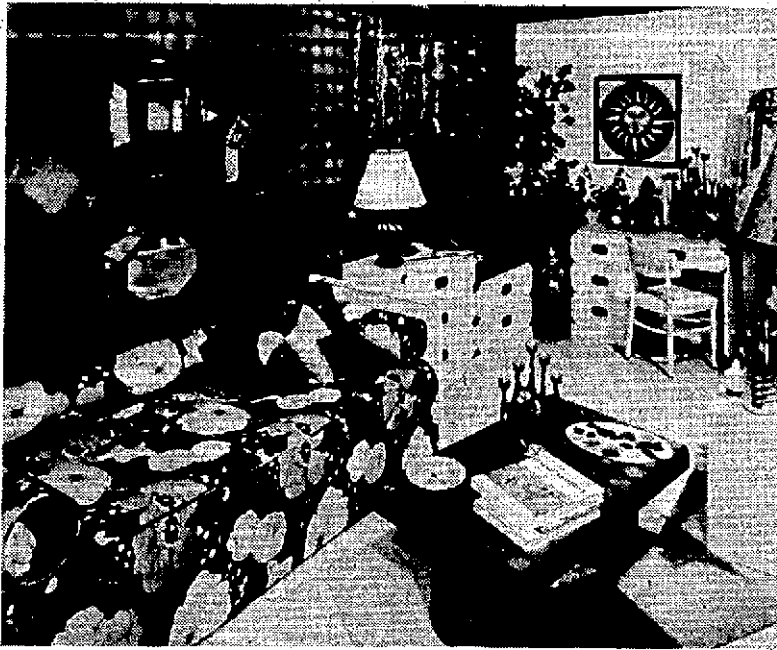

In planning a long-term leisure house for a furniture manufacturer and a paneling manufacturer, she discovered that decorating choices can make or break the investment.

"Furnishings can be an economic burden or a budget-conscious, easy-care freedom," she said. "The total scheme might look great on a sunny, family-filled weekend, but may look lonely and a little foolish in those winters later on. A barren cabin can be a frustrating weekend retreat, while a decorator-finished spot leaves no room for rainy day creativity."

The designer developed the following list of Dos and Don'ts to help avoid these real-life snags:

DO decide on a decorating timetable. Some people may be content to live with the bare basics during vacations and then acquire all the extras when they settle in for full-time living. Others might decide on one major purchase or project each year. However, the designer points out, it is possible and economically feasible to have a complete retreat the first year. Thoughtful planners can go the live-for-now-and-later route from the very beginning.

DO well-constructed, low-cost furniture such as easy care chests, dressers, beds, desks

DO-IT-YOURSELF: This artist's studio hides a guest room. This look-alike den of a vacation-retirement home never betrays its budget origins. Terra cotta drain pipes make a coffee table base with the top made from leftover pieces of wall paneling. The daybed (which sleeps two), desk and chests give the artist-owner space for painting projects, and the guests a place to stash clothes and other belongings. Mirrors and artifacts collected from travels add tasteful ambience that denies any budget considerations. Even the do-it-yourself macramé window covering, the tiles turned planters and the area rug pieced together from carpet samples take on a custom made look in this setting.

and storage unit pieces and do-it-yourself ideas make it possible to decorate a vacation home immediately and have it hold up through the retirement years.

DON'T cut corners on style, quality and that elusive ideal, "the look you've always wanted." This home is a major investment; it's a retirement retreat that's all yours, and your enjoyment is its raison d'être. Even if the budget is small, there are always lower-cost ways to gain great effects.

Reasonably-priced hardboard paneling applied in unique combinations and patterns will create custom-look rooms on a do-it-yourself budget. For instance, in a living room with a cathedral ceiling emphasize the architectural effect by applying woodgrain paneling on an angle. Mix paneling and fabric on the wall for a soft bedroom look. And leftover pieces can be used to cover custom-built (by you and yours, course) coffee tables, shelving units, etc.

Do choose styles you've always admired. If a Far Eastern, bamboo-trimmed bedroom has been your secret dream, have it. Expensive Oriental imports aren't a must. Hung for well-priced adaptations, which will give the room an exotic look.

DON'T forget where you are and why you're there. Take your decorating cue from your carefully selected homesite. For instance, if a tree-deep, lake house is your shell, play up the outdoors with a nature-inspired color scheme, floral patterned fabrics and wood-grained paneling. Low-maintenance furnishings and window and floor coverings are also a decorating "do" for the care-free weeks of vacation. The concept of minimal upkeep is equally refreshing in the retirement years when there is time for favorite projects, recreation and visits from the grandchildren. Wipe-off, melamine surfaced furniture plus trim-lined, wipe-clean blinds will keep housework at a minimum.

DECORATING TRICKS: Stretch the apparent size and actual function of a small dining nook in the guest-roomed leisure home with tricks. The table teamed with a glass-spaced set of china cabinets will host a buffet for 12 when friends and family gather for the weekend. The paneling (applied on an angle to point up the room's cathedral ceiling look) is mixed with white stucco-like paneling and the window is framed with a do-it-yourself wall graphic to visually enlarge the room. Space-saving tricks, like the do-it-yourself wine rack made from drain pipes, also make the most of the small area.

DO rely on do-it-yourself projects. They can be the solution to furnishing a home with pizzazz for pin money. A macramé-type hanging can cover a no-view window as well as a wall and save you the cost of draperies.

Unusual materials, perhaps left behind by the homebuilders, can be turned into a variety of household items. Ordinary terra cotta drain pipes left by the construction crew for example, can fashion a wine rack, bookends, planters or even a coffee table base.

DON'T forget others — even though this home is primarily for you. Guests — whether grandchildren or other liberated empty nesters — will be an important part of your vacation and retirement life. Pack your quarters with hidden sleeping space by choosing a daybed with a pop-up trundle instead of a sofa-only style. Create a hobby room for yourself, but plan it for play when the toddler set comes to visit.

DO stretch the mind, not the budget. Ingenious ideas are what make good decorators, whether they're professional or amateur. Frame a window with a hand-painted super graphic. Make a colorful rug with carpet remnants. Create a server of a vanity desk by stretching a piece of glass across two chests.

Alternate strips of prefinished paneling with bright fabric for a different wall decor.

Cutting costs without cutting style in putting together a vacation-retirement home does take more time, planning and imagination than a one-shot trip to Miami or Las Vegas. But the results of all this extra effort mean pleasure and security for now, for later and for in-between.

WOODSY SETTING: Let nature set the course is a good rule for decorating a vacation-retirement home. This home's site, selected for its woodsy setting, established a decorating scheme of outdoor colors and floral patterns combined with warm woods. Walnut-toned and white paneling combines with the furniture to provide a warm complement to the room's color combination — cranberry, lime, beige and white. The melamine surfaced chests, desk and lamp table and the do-it-yourself coffee table, made from wall paneling, make the home's interior almost as carefree as the no-maintenance, back-to-nature exterior. The "brick" fireplace is also made from paneling.

Pair Wed 25 Years

PAW PAW — Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rennback, 619 Hillcrest, Paw Paw, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at Di Juano's restaurant, Paw Paw, May 3.

Rennback and the former Lucile Reck were married May 6, 1950, at Immanuel Lutheran church, Bridgman. The Rev. Harold Ott performed the ceremony.

The couple has three children, Mrs. Nathan (Robin) Nitz of Baroda, and Craig and Kurt, both at home.

The Rennbacks are owners of Coast to Coast Hardware, Paw Paw.

AVOID OFF-FLAVOR

If you marinate meats in wine use a glass or porcelain utensil if the marinating will go on for more than an hour. Some metals give food and wine an off-flavor.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

No Tricks For Treaterers

Dear Ann Landers: Me write to Ann Landers? Never. But here I am. I don't know what good it will do, but maybe I'll feel better. The problem is my wife. Here's how I'd rate her: Housekeeper — A. Cook — A. Economist — A. Lover — C. minus. The reason I don't flunk her completely is because once in awhile she does me a big favor. Usually it's when we return from a party and she's had more than her share of drinks. Then, I'd better be ready or I would never hear the end of it. Her usual routine goes like this. After supper, in the middle of a TV program, she gets up and says, "I'm tired and I'm going to bed. When you come in, don't bother me." On weekends her best excuses are: (1) your mother may drop in; (2) the kids are due home from the movies; (3) the insurance man, paperboy or milkman is coming to collect; (4) I just had my hair done.

I'm not the type to run around, but I don't know WHAT type I'll be in five years. (I'm 38 now.) A word to you chicks who are sitting around drying up: If there are enough treats at home, your man won't go out looking for tricks. — Underfed and Looking In Buffalo

Dear Buff: Your letter contained an interesting clue. Boozie makes your wife amorous. This means she has inhibitions about sex that undoubtedly go back to her early childhood. I suggest joint counseling. Can't hurt. Might help.

Sticks By Guns

Dear Ann Landers: I must reprimand you for your crude reply to "His Widow." She wrote that her husband died suddenly, leaving her with several children to raise, and no insurance. She said he believed it made better sense to put money in the bank where it would draw interest rather than pay it out in insurance premiums. The woman was very bitter when she learned the bank balance was $5,000. If he had carried life insurance she would have collected over $50,000.

You answered: "Put aside your resentment. In my opinion your husband wasn't inconsiderate, he was ignorant." What a lousy thing to say! The man is dead. He can't defend himself. And YOU call him ignorant! You owe every widow in the world an apology. — Appalled

Dear App: The man WAS ignorant. That's what I said and that's what I meant. True, he's dead, but his widow is alive — and she has four little kids to raise and very little money. Had he known better, he would have carried life insurance.

Show-Off Repents

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "The Life of the Party" prompted me to write my first letter to a newspaper.

Your advice was exactly right. I know, because I was once "The Life of the Party," willing to be the butt of any joke in exchange for attention. It took a shattered marriage to get me into therapy. When I discovered the real me, I achieved a sense of personal worth I had never known before.

When I tell friends that my new approach to life is the result of counseling, I get looks of disbelief. "Why would anyone so jolly and outgoing need therapy?" they ask. If they only knew!

Now my friends call ME. I don't chase them. I can be in a group and listen instead of trying to monopolize every conversation and hogging the spotlight. Sign me — Showing Off Less And Enjoying Myself More

Dear Friend: Less IS more. I doff my bonnet to you! Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Events Ganges

GANGES — Ganges Jilt club will meet Tuesday, June 3, at 6:30 p.m. for its annual picnic at the home of Mrs. James McGoldrick.

Mrs. Arnold Green will give the program, "The President's Platform."

The meeting is being held for the benefit of the Red Hat Rebekah Lodge camp fund.

Smothering Materialism

My friend, Mayva, was so depressed this week.

"The house is absolutely desolate since my daughter got her own apartment," she confided. "Sit down."

"On what?" I asked, looking for a chair.

"Dede borrowed them until she could afford the ones she wanted. Honest, I've never felt so lonely in my life. You don't believe how quiet it is around here."

"I can believe it," I said. "Where's your TV set and your kitchen radio?"

"Dede needed some kind of noise while she was at work to discourage burglars from breaking in. It was nice having her home. We used to sit around the table and have coffee and talk..."

"And now?"

"She took the everyday dishes and all the small appliances. I still have the waffle iron, though. Want a waffle? (I shook my head.) What am I to do?" she wailed.

"You've got to keep busy, Mayva," I said. "Why don't you sew yourself some summer clothes?"

"I suppose I could borrow my sewing machine back from Dede," she mused.

"I didn't know Dede sewed." "She doesn't, but my living room draperies were too big for her windows and she has to cut them down."

"How did things get so out of hand?" I asked.

"It all started with the vacuum sweeper. She wanted to borrow it to clean her apartment."

"That sounds reasonable."

"It did to me too until she said, 'How am I going to get it over there. I'll have to borrow your car and as long as I'm driving over I hate to go with an empty load so if you don't mind I'll take my bedroom suite with me.' And I said, what are you going to do for furniture for the rest of the apartment? And she said, 'I guess I'll have to entertain everyone in my bedroom.'"

"And that's when you threw in the rest of the house?"

"Including the dog," said Mayva.

"You'll just have to start over," I said, "maybe after a vacation..."

"Without luggage?" she asked miserably.

"Well, I hate to leave this comfortable window sill," I said, "but I must be going. By the way, how come Dede moved out?"

"She had to," said Mayva defensively, "our materialism was smothering her!"

Changes Are Needed As Skin Matures

The soap or cleanser you used as a teenager may not be suited for "grown-up" skin, according to "Family Health" magazine. As skin matures, some changes may be necessary to insure a proper cleansing regimen, an article in a recent issue said.

As skin ages, its oiliness decreases and it may become dry. Individuals with dry skin should avoid harsh alkaline soaps, excessive washing and the use of too-hot water to rinse away suds. Those over 29 are advised either to use soap sparingly, followed by application of cold cream, or to wash with a non-soap cleanser.

According to the article, the latter category includes a creamy emollient developed for all age groups. Soapless cleansers wash off completely, leaving no scum and "work" well even in hard water.

No matter what kind of cleanser is used, however, it isn't necessary to get skin "squeaky" clean, the report says. Excessive removal of the skin's oils can result in increased friction and accompanying chafing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You need to associate with gregarious types today. Mix with friends who have new ideas and are anxious to talk about them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's really to your benefit to clean up those little details that affect your work or career before you relax this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to get together socially this evening with one who is interested in something you're working on. His ideas are more advanced than yours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone will tell you something in confidence today that you can gain from. Discuss it only with your family if you MUST talk about it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a good idea regarding something affecting you and your mate. Take it easy. You'll later come up with something even better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to associate with persons whose careers are similar to yours. The exchange of information will be especially helpful to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're the catalyst your group needs socially this evening. The party clicks right after you arrive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If there's something you'd like to do for the family, do it secretly. They'll appreciate it later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Chances are you'll be a bit restless today. Ease the tension by taking a short fun trip, forget business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're still in a cycle where you're likely to derive profit from situations that have little or no value to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you are in for some surprises. Spur-of-the-moment happenings will be exciting and fun. Keep your schedule flexible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A gift may be coming your way, either from a family member or a family contact. It's something unusual you can use in the home.

Your Birthday

May 31, 1975

The ways and means will be available for a trip you've contemplated for some time, but couldn't afford. Have your bags packed. The opportunity will come unexpectedly.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Why are infections around the nose and upper lip considered particularly dangerous? Our doctor is always so concerned when any of us has an infection in that area.

Mrs. H.Z., Ohio

Dear Mrs. Z.:

Concern about infections anywhere in the body is based on the fact that germs may invade the blood stream and set up housekeeping in some distant part of the body.

The body defenses against infection are remarkable. When a signal is sent out that an infection has set in, more blood is brought to the area to bring the white blood cells to surround and destroy the germs.

The pus is formed in an index of how good the body defenses are. Pus is a mixture of dead germs and exhausted white blood cells that have accomplished their purpose.

The reason that infections around the lips and the nose are worrisome is that any spread from this area may threaten the deep tissues in the neck and even the brain.

Fortunately, the active use of antibiotics minimizes the danger of septicemia, or blood poisoning, that occurs when germs enter the blood.

A simple warning is important. No pimple should ever be squeezed. This only increases the danger of pushing germs into the blood stream.

I had a "shoulder separation" when I was a young boy. I've always been curious about what this means.

MMr. G.S.O., Maine

Dear Mr. O.:

A "shoulder separation" is a tear of the ligaments and the muscles that attach the collar bone (clavicle) to the shoulder blade (scapula).

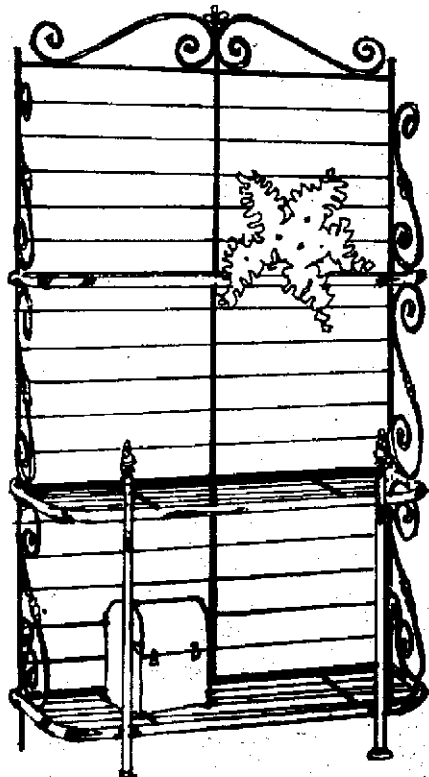

Unless this painful injury is treated with splints and rest, permanent limitation of motion of the shoulder can occur.

The degree of separation, partial or complete, determines the need for other forms of treatment. Sometimes, surgery is necessary to remove bone chips and to realign the ligaments.

Such injuries must not be casually treated for there is always the possibility that with neglect, limitation of motion and disability may result.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

TODAY

Veto Override Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's veto of a $5.3-billion program designed to create 900,000 jobs will be overridden by Congress, House Speaker Carl Albert indicates. "The Congress will not allow the President's negative action to scuttle this job-producing legislation," Albert said Thursday after the White House announced Ford's veto. The antirecession measure included authorizations for $1.6 billion for public service jobs, $485 million for summer youth jobs, $440 million for construction and repair of federal buildings around the country, $385 million for small business loans and $325 million for speedup of flood control, reclamation and rivers and harbors projects.

Warren Panel Not Told Of Plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA and the Justice Department withheld information about CIA involvement in attempts to assassinate Fidel Castro from members of the Warren Commission investigating President John F. Kennedy's death, according to knowledgeable sources. Two former officials of the Central Intelligence Agency who acknowledged that the Warren Commission never was told about a 1961 plot on the Cuban premier's life insisted that no conscious decision was made to withhold the information. Instead, they contend it never occurred to anyone at the CIA that the Kennedy assassination could have been ordered by Castro in retaliation for U.S.-sponsored attempts on his life.

Beame Unveils Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame, with seething denunciations of Republican lawmakers and Wall Street bankers, has announced an $11.89 billion "shock therapy" budget that he says will cut 51,000 employees from the city payroll by June 30. In addition to the 13,782 dismissals Beame already had ordered, the new 1975-76 "crisislevel" budget called for layoffs of another 37,315 city employees. One of every three policemen and sanitation workers and one of every five firemen will be fired. Workers in education, health, transportation, housing, parks and municipal government are also marked for dismissal.

Refugee Sponsors Fading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Offers from prospective sponsors of Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees have dropped sharply, and some officials believe it may be a year or more before resettlement of the refugees is complete. Resettlement officials say a reported delay caused by security checks of the refugees is slowing the pace of relocation while the decline in the number of sponsors poses more delays in the future. These officials say the delay is likely to keep thousands of refugees on Guam through the summer typhoon season and could force the opening of more refugee camps on the U.S. mainland.

Brezhnev May Retire

BRUSSELS (AP) — Leaders of the North Atlantic Alliance are getting reports from Moscow that suggest Leonid I. Brezhnev, the No. 1 man in the Soviet Union, will retire next year. That is believed to be the chief reason why the Soviet government is pushing so hard for a 34-nation summit conference on European security in September. It will officially recognize the Soviet sphere of influence in Eastern Europe, and Brezhnev wants it as the crowning achievement of his career. Expectations of Brezhnev's withdrawal from public life appear to be based on circumstantial evidence, hints and suggestions. No visiting Western leader has been told outright the Communist party chief is on his way out.

A Vote For Permanency

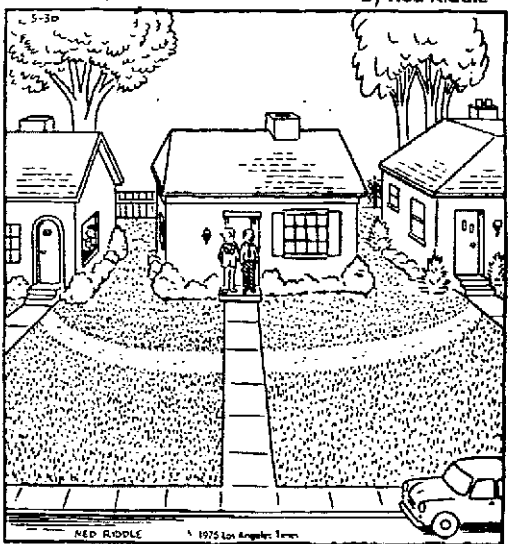

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has voted to make the present office and commission on services to the elderly a permanent part of state government. By a vote of 32-0, the Senate passed Thursday and sent to the House a bill which would indefinitely extend the two-year-old office. It would create an independent agency in the Department of Management and Budget to deal with the problems of the aged.

Pensions For Survivors

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The wife of a deceased municipal policeman or fireman would continue to receive 60 per cent of her husband's pension under a bill approved by the House and sent to the governor. The bill, approved 103-0 and sent to the governor, also would use a new formula increasing the size of pensions and the cost to the municipalities that offer them.

Court Bars U.S. Beef-Grading Changes

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the U.S. Department of Agriculture cannot change the way it grades the nation's beef. U.S. District Court Judge Robert V. Denney, issuing a permanent injunction against the USDA Thursday, called the proposed regulations "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with law."

He ruled the department failed to say adequately what economic impact the changes would have and improperly tied quality grading to yield grading, or the amount of usable meat a carcass will yield. The proposed changes would have lowered the standards for fat marbling — the tiny specks of fat through red meat felt to be the best indicator of how tasty, tender and juicy beef will be. This would have allowed some cattle now graded "good" to move up to "choice," and some "choice" animals to get a "prime" grade.

Consumer groups charged that the proposed standards would have meant retailers could charge the same amount of money for inferior meat, and meat packers said the new regulations would increase their costs.

But the government claimed current marbling standards were too high, and cattle growers said they had to spend too much on feed to fatten their beef to meet the standards.

Denney, a former Nebraska congressman who has raised some cattle himself, issued a preliminary injunction last month halting the scheduled April 14 start of the new standards. The injunction was upheld by the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, but the higher court amended the injunction to a 45-day time limit and ordered Denney to hold hearings on a suit filed by the Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha (IMPAO).

Denney held two weeks of hearings, which ended last Friday. Nearly 30 witnesses were called to testify as "experts" for and against the new standards, and more than 2,000 pages of testimony were taken. His decision beat the 45-day limit by one day.

Teacher Strike Bill Clears House Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation allowing school strikes of up to five weeks was reported out of the House Labor Committee on Thursday. A tough floor fight is expected next week.

The committee vote was 13-0. The controversial measure has a limited right-to-strike provision for school employees permitting them to walk out for three weeks with pay and an added two weeks without pay.

After that time, the dispute would go to binding arbitration while the employees returned to classes.

State Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, said he plans to offer amendments to the bill next week to shorten the maximum strike time from five weeks to two weeks. He also wants the employees to lose pay for all time they are not at work.

Supporters of the committee bill characterized Keith's proposed amendments as "pru-management" and refused to add them to the bill. There was no formal vote taken on the amendments, however.

The school strike measure was worked out several months ago by representatives of teacher groups, school administrators and school boards, although some of the groups subsequently criticized the proposal.

It's Not Likely That They'll Advertise

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Massage parlors would have to carry warnings under a proposed ordinance to be considered by the Clark County Commission this Friday.

The regulation would require all massage parlors advertising in newspapers and on radio and television to carry a subtitle reading: "Notice: Prostitution is unlawful in all parts of Clark County."

WON'T QUIT: High school sophomore Jimmy Certain, 15, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is sure of one thing — he will not allow the effects of polio to keep him from a world's record for walking on his hands. A victim of polio at 2 months, Jimmy couldn't walk until he was 7 years old. He has bettered the listed time of 29.5 seconds for walking 50 yards on his hands. Physical education teacher Gary Weller checks his time on a recent practice walk. (AP Wirephoto)

Current PBB Rules Are Firm

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state panel is expected to stick with current standards defining poisonous concentrations of a fire-retardant chemical in animals.

About a dozen witnesses testified before the panel Thursday but a source said no new evidence was heard which would prompt levels of polychlorinated biphenyls (PBB) to be lowered.

Changing the standards could keep some animals which accidentally ate feed containing the poison from market. They might otherwise be butchered and consumed because levels of the poison in their systems was below levels considered dangerous.

"We have heard nothing to suggest the levels should be lowered to protect human beings," the panel source said.

The panel, made up of officials from the attorney general and the state departments of agriculture and public health, will make a final determination on the tolerance level at a later date.

Some 100 persons attended the hearing. One of them was Gary Zuiderveen, a Missaukee County farmer.

Search On For Slayer Of Boy, 4

DETROIT BEACH, Mich. (AP) — An intensive search was launched by more than 100 law enforcement officers and volunteers Thursday for a man who stabbed and killed a 4-year-old boy less than a block from the youth's home.

The Monroe County Sheriff's Department said information about the assailant was "very sketchy" because the only definite witnesses to the slaying of Kenneth C. Cox were two other youths about the same age.

The department added it is seeking a woman, aged 20 to 25, who may have witnessed the incident. A department spokesman said the woman talked with a volunteer fireman who aided in the manhunt but left the scene before police could locate her.

County farmer. "This hearing is a kangaroo court where they let us have our say but their minds are made up already," Zuiderveen complained away from the panel.

Zuiderveen said he imposed a voluntary quarantine last January on more than 200 head of his cattle he suspects are contaminated.

Several other Missaukee County farmers displayed a half-dozen sickly looking cows. The farmers claimed the animals were suffering from PBB contamination below government tolerance levels.

"These animals could be sold right now and be in stores within three days if we allowed it. But we don't want to take the chance of injuring anyone," said Harold Dodde, a Falmouth area dairy farmer.

Relics Of Pre-Auto Past Return To Downtown Detroit Streets

DETROIT (AP) — A bit of the pre-auto pastyuring to the Motor City.

Three 75-year-old trolley cars will be unloaded from a German freighter Saturday, as the city prepares to reinstitute a downtown trolley run along once-stylish Washington Boulevard.

There hasn't been a trolley car in the city since 1960.

The new trolley is the brainchild of architect and city planner Alex Pollack, whose brush designs brighten many old downtown structures.

Pollack hopes the street car will attract people to the downtown area.

Consumer Bill Wins Senate OK

By MALCOLM JOHNSON Associated Press Writer LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Senate has approved a consumer protection measure that is certain to run into opposition from House Democrats and consumer groups who say it is too weak.

The bill defines and outlaws deceptive trade practices. Versions of the measure have failed to pass in each of the last nine years.

The latest effort, approved 23-8 Thursday, is expected to end up in a conference committee.

Although its supporters in the Senate defended it as fair to consumers and businesses, the measure came under instant attack from House Democratic Floor Leader Joseph Forbes of Oak Park.

"That bill is dead...It is unacceptable," said Forbes, who has sponsored a tougher version now in the House Consumers and Agriculture Committee. He said the Senate bill would either be killed or amended extensively.

Covered by the bill are misrepresenting goods, false advertising, making false statements about price reductions and other deceptive trade practices.

The attorney general and all local prosecutors would be able to seek injunctions against violators of the act. The attorney general and all private citizens also could sue for damages, including class action lawsuits.

Persistent violators of the act could be fined up to $25,000, and anyone violating an injunction could be fined up to $5,000.

A person could recover damages up to $200 in a lawsuit over deceptive trade practices.

The Senate reduced penalties for violating an injunction from $10,000 as originally drafted to $5,000; and for disclosing certain confidential information or obstructing an investigation, from $5,000 to $2,500.

However, the Senate also restored the higher penalty of $25,000 for violation of the act itself, after the penalty had been cut to $15,000 on the Senate floor.

BIG PLANS

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's automakers plan to build 632,000 cars in June, the highest output for any month this year and off only 4 per cent from the June 1974 levels.

"It's the first step in revitalizing the Washington Boulevard area," he said.

The trolley will run from Cobo Hall on the Detroit riverfront about a half-mile to Grand Circus Park. It is designed to ferry convention delegates from their hotels to Cobo.

But Pollack says the trolleys also should attract children and visitors to the area.

"They are historical and educational as well as functional," he said.

The cars were built in the late 1800s in St. Louis and have been fully restored. They are painted red and white and have oak and mahogany interiors. And, according to Pollack, there's "lots of brass."

Although the cars were built in the United States, they were purchased in Lisbon.

When Detroit first began looking for trolleys three years ago there were no cars available anywhere in the nation, Pollack said. But Lisbon was modernizing its transit system and willing to sell some of its old cars.

"They didn't mind selling them," Pollack said.

"They might mind now that they know how valuable they are," he added. "The value of the trolley is enormous. It's worth more than we paid for it. It's an antique as well as a functional item."

South Haven Board Mulls Sewer Billing Changes

By TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Proposed changes in the method of billing South Haven sewer utility customers were reviewed by the city's Board of Public Utilities (BPU) last night.

The city was ordered last September by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to bring equality in its billing practices for all customers. The federal agency believed the city was favoring its high volume water-sewer customers because the cost per thousand gallons in high amounts was less than the city's expense to treat it.

BPU members considered four proposals prepared by John Kistler and Associates, Inc. of Grand Haven, but were unable to determine which it favored.

Each of the plans drew support from individual BPU members, city officials and the consultant. The basic contention rested with how much of the financial load should be borne by the city's large volume users, mainly 11 industrial accounts.

Presently the sewer bill matches the customer's water bill no matter how much water is returned to the sewage system. Several industries have argued that they return a very small percentage of the water they use to the sewage system and therefore are being charged excessively.

The four plans being considered are:

1. Maintain the same system of billing, but change the rate for consumed amounts as follows: First 1,000 cubic feet at 4¢ cents per 100 cubic feet; second 3,000 cubic feet at 43¢ cents per 100 cubic feet; over 4,000 cubic feet 24¢ cents per 100 cubic feet. The current charges are 45¢ cents, 40¢ cents and 20¢ cents for the three stages. This plan would increase the industrial billings approximately 15 per cent and commercial - residential billings 8 per cent. The standby charge would remain the same.

2. Charge 42¢ cents per 100 cubic feet for actual sewage discharged to the sewer or 50 per cent of the total water used, whichever is the greatest. There would be no discount for volume. Industrial billings would be increased about eight per cent and residential - commercial billings three per cent. The existing standby charge would be the same. This would create a surplus in the sewer department of $15,000.

3. Same method as plan two except make the cost per 100 cubic feet 40¢ cents instead of 42¢ cents. This would lower overall income approximately $13,000 from plan two bringing it closer to a break-even situation.

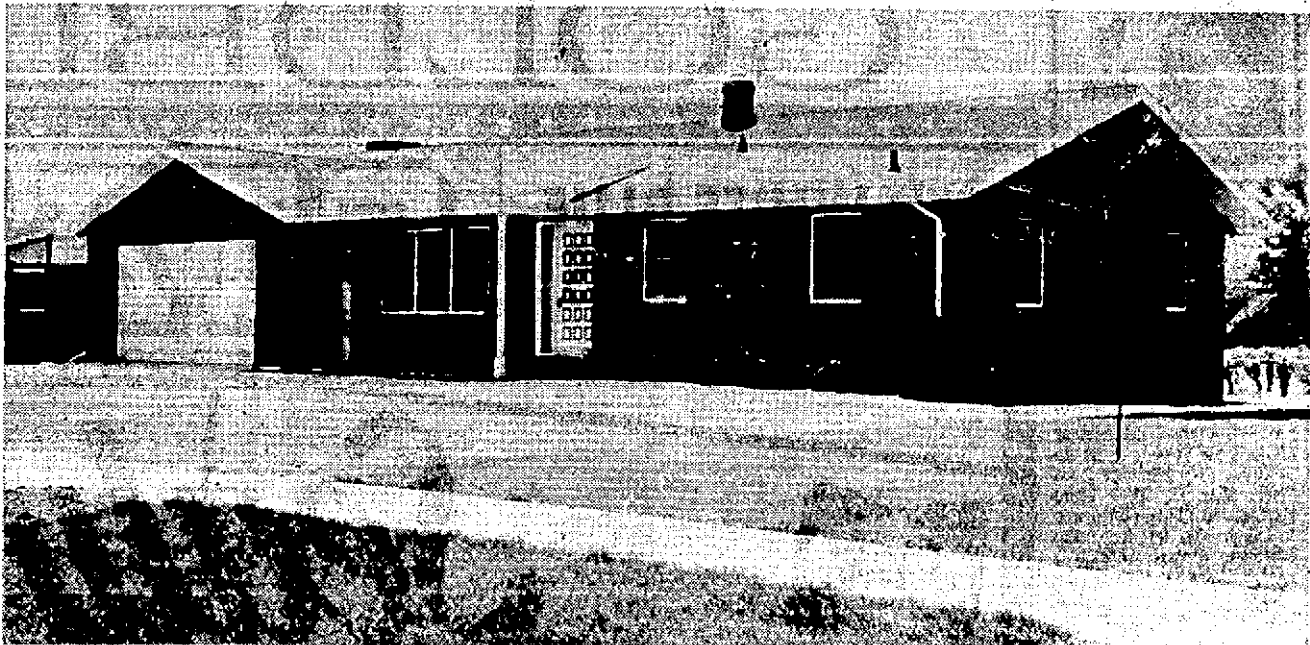

4. Charge 58¢ cents per 100 cubic feet across - the - board on actual sewage discharged or 10 per cent of the total water used, whichever is greater. This plan would shift the burden of maintaining the sewer system to the residential customer. Presently the income comes nearly equally from industrial and commercial - residential customers. This plan would have commercial - residential customers paying 70 per cent of the total cost. The average family of four's two month billing would be increased about 30 per cent.

The board took the matter under advisement for further consideration at its next meeting.

In other matters, the board received a recommendation from BPU comptroller Wilbur Lynam that it make permanent a 20 per cent across - the - board increase in electric rates that was adopted on a temporary basis in 1973.

The 1973 action was taken to pay for an increase charged by its wholesale supplier, Indiana & Michigan Electric company. The rate was adopted on a temporary basis because the amount sought by I&M was not yet approved by the Federal Power commission. The matter has still not been settled.

"With the passing of time the OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY, SUNDAY: Three bedroom ranch style house constructed by St. Joseph and Lakeshore high school students will be open for inspection 1 to 5 p. m. Saturday and Sunday. House is located at 4244 Denton avenue, Lincoln township, in Glenlord subdivision. House has brick and wood siding, full basement, kitchen, dining, living and family rooms and one and three quarters baths. (Staff photo) prospect of a lower rate being approved becomes more and more unlikely," Lynam said.

He noted that the current method of billing is confusing customers because the statement contains several line items that take into account the temporary increase.

Lynam also recommended increasing the monthly cost for street lights provided South Haven and Geneva townships. He also suggested changing the due date of electric bills from the 10th of the month to the 21st, incorporation of a policy of allowing each customer one late payment without penalty after 12 months of paying bills on time, and establishment of a budget payment plan to allow customers to pay equal amounts each month the year around.

The suggestions were taken under advisement.

The board received a long-delayed study of the city's sanitary and storm sewer systems. The study was commissioned to the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seelye of Ann Arbor in 1970 at a cost of $30,000. The city has been seeking completion of the study for more than a year.

The study gives the city for the first time a detailed review of its present sewer system and its capabilities. It also suggests areas that will need bolstering if the city extends its lines on a large scale to property owners outside the city.

You haven't read much about it because there hasn't been much to write about, but, since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, a Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe has been dawdling along in Geneva. It all began at Helsinki a year or so ago when the Soviets proposed a grand get-together of European powers to tie up the loose ends left over from World War II. After some stalling, the United States was included. On its face, the exercise looked harmless enough: After all, who can be against "Security and Cooperation" in Europe?

Well, for starters, I can — given the definition of this phrase that Moscow has sedulously advanced. In effect, what the Soviet Union wants is the international legitimization of its post-war expansion: its seizure of Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia and a large chunk of Poland. Implicit in the Soviet position is the acceptance by all hands of the "Brezhnev Doctrine": the proposition that the U.S.S.R. has the right, even the obligation, to prevent "socialist" states from wandering off on a democratic tack. This, of course, was the justification for the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia.

But there is no reciprocity: If the United States suggested that we have the obligation, for example, to prevent Portugal from becoming a Communist dictatorship, the Soviets would bitterly denounce the proposition. In short, what's theirs is theirs; what's ours is up for grabs. When this nonsense began, I suggested that the United States should require Moscow to repudiate the Brezhnev Doctrine as a precondition for our participation (which is symbolically crucial). However, that was when the detente myth was in full bloom and it was considered very bad manners for me to suggest an "ultimatum" to Comrade Brezhnev. Didn't I trust him to move arm in arm with us into a shining future of peace in Indochina and the Middle East?

In a word, No. Or more properly, I fully anticipated that detente would be employed as a Communist weapons-system against us. Le Duc Tho, for example, was completely consistent in refusing his half of the Nobel Peace Prize for the "peace" in Vietnam. His definition of "peace" was Communist domination, and I trust he will now travel to Stockholm and collect; nobody can accuse him of being dishonest.

Back in the windy halls of Geneva and the European Security Conference: As usual the Soviets are engaged in their iron-bottomed tactics; they just sit there and reject proposal after proposal and then accuse the others of being intransigent, unreasonable victims of the Cold War mentality. Take my special interest, the right of free movement of ideas and people (the so-called "Basket 3" at Geneva). The Soviets have consistently defined freedom of information as the right of a sovereign state to bar from its people subversive ideas; that is, the divine right of censorship. They do this with a straight face.

Not only do they announce this repressive policy, but they implement it by vigorous jamming of Radio Liberty, Kol Israel and Radio Peking. As a member of the U.S. Board of International Broadcasting, which Congress established to replace the C.I.A. as the governmental parents of Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe, I have been infuriated by our refusal to make an issue out of jamming at Geneva. (Radio Free Europe is jammed in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Poland).

Suddenly at this point the past in Geneva is bored to death and wants to go home so the temptation is great to settle for some anodyne formula which all hands can subsequently construe as they choose. This would delight Moscow because unanimous agreement on any communique, however ambiguous, serves their symbolic goal: It legitimizes their European status. I submit that the U.S. should refuse to sign any declaration that does not explicitly denounce jamming. Our principles are more important than any fictitious show of the charade of "unity."

College Loan Bill Readied

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — College students feeling the pinch of inflation could obtain low-interest loans from the state under a bill approved by the Senate. They could receive up to $1,500 a year under the bill, and up to $7,500 during a college career. Designed to supplement current state-guaranteed loan program now available through some private banks, the program would utilize bond sales to raise the money. Sponsored by Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, the measure passed 30-2 Thursday and went to the House. It would take effect next October.

Onsted Search Abandoned; Taylor Charged In Seattle

ONSTED, Mich. (AP) — Authorities have, for the moment, given up on finding more bodies at the onetime home of accused murderer Gary Addison Taylor.

Authorities dug up some more of the property for more than two hours Thursday. Lenawee County Sheriff Richard Germond said later he was giving up the search unless new information is received. A 24-hour guard that has been on the property for eight days was removed.

In Seattle, meanwhile, Taylor was charged Thursday with murdering Vonnice Stuth of Buri, Wash. It was the first formal murder charge filed against him.

Germond said Taylor's wife, Helen, though her attorney, indicated last week that four bodies were buried on the property near Onsted. Two partly decomposed bodies were dug up May 23 and identified as those of two Toledo, Ohio, women missing since 1974.

The bodies were found two feet underground, directly below a rear bedroom window. Digging was called off the next day.

Deputies brought in three inmates from the county jail Thursday to dig with shovels in an area about 40 feet from the window, but still within a fence surrounding the property.

"It's anybody's guess now if anybody's buried here," Germond said.

'Bizarre' Defense Brings Court Order For Retrial

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A convicted murderer should get a new trial because of "bizarre" and "incredibly abusive" behavior by his lawyer in a 1971 trial, the state Supreme Court said Thursday.

Defense attorney William Hayes of Flint failed to see his client, Mandric Stodder, during the 109 days preceding his Genesee County Circuit Court trial and did not interview or call important witnesses, the high court found in sending the case back for retrial.

The court added Hayes also failed to perfect an insanity plea, "conducted an irrational defense" and "conducted himself in a bizarre if not contemptuous manner."

Hayes was "abusive to the trial judge, the prosecutor, and other public officials" the high court found.

Stodder, now 23, is serving a life sentence for first-degree murder in the 1970 slaying of Sally Ann Wright. The body of Mrs. Wright, who died of strangulation, was found in the Flint River. The case was tried without a jury by Genesee County Circuit Court Judge Philip Elliott.

Hayes said Thursday Judge

Elliott's own behavior was bizarre.

"Elliott should have removed himself from the case in the beginning," he said, "because he was a friend of the victim's husband and went to the victim's funeral."

The victim's widow, Bernard Wright, is a Genesee County probation officer.

The 1971 trial proceeded without incident until the prosecutor concluded his case, the high court said. Then Hayes demanded case records be impounded, the judge and prosecutor be suspended from office, no further prosecution be allowed and that Stodder "immediately be set free," the court said.

In addition, Hayes said taxpayers should finance Stodder's living expenses "for the rest of his natural life," the court said. When Elliott declined the request, Hayes and Stodder refused to continue.

The next day, a co-defense counsel was appointed and after a week recess, a psychiatrist was assigned to observe Hayes. The psychiatrist concluded Hayes was fit to continue his defense.

At one point, Hayes accused the victim's widow of the murder, the high court said.

The State Bar Grievance Board suspended Hayes for 90 days in 1973 for his behavior at the trial.

Retrial was ordered on a 3-2 opinion, with Chief Justice Thomas Giles Kavanagh and Justice Charles Levin joined on a single opinion and Justice G. Mennen Williams writing a separate affirmative opinion. Dissenting were Justices Mary Coleman and John Fitzgerald, who said Hayes' behavior did not ultimately deprive Stodder of a fair trial.

The Supreme Court congratulated Elliott for "unusual patience." Williams' opinion blasted Hayes for conducting himself "in a bizarre if not contemptuous manner" and ordered reversal for "ineffective counsel, for failure of adequate diligence to assure a fair trial."

"That's hokum," Hayes said Thursday after hearing the decision. "They're naturally going to blame lawyers. They weren't there so how can they judge? Why don't they look at their own judges?"

BUW Allocates $5,000 To Help Area's Jobless

The Blossomland United Way board of directors voted $5,000 from reserve funds Thursday to help the area unemployed find resources to meet off-the-job needs, according to Henry Tippet, president.

The unprecedented action was taken on the heels of this week's announcement by the Michigan Employment Security Commission that a record 17.2 per cent of the country's work force is unemployed.

"The United Way is a viable organization concerned for all citizens of the community," Tippet said. "Worker's dollars support United Way services, and when unemployment affects so many citizens, it is proper that United Way play its part in helping, particularly the workers who have so loyally supported the United Way system."

The grant will be used for start-up costs not covered by other means. Jim F. Miller, director of the BUW operated information and Referral service, was assigned the task of recruiting and training at least two additional persons for his department. Miller plans to find volunteers for this task.

The I & R counselors will work primarily with the newly unemployed, Miller said. I & R will advertise availability of the service, and develop other means of reaching those needing the program. All agencies in the community will be asked to co-operate with updated information on services to the unemployed. Miller will meet immediately with BUW agency executives to gather fresh information on programs for the unemployed.

Tippet announced the appointment of Dean Cortson, Bendix corporation, and Richard Helmrich, Inter-City Bank as new directors filling two vacant positions.

In other matters, board members heard BUW executive director W. Gary Baker report that 1975 collections were running behind the 1974 pace. He attributed the decrease to continuing unemployment and a resulting loss of payroll deduction pledges. Possible adjustment of 1975 allocations will be discussed at a later meeting, Baker said.

Action of the board, also resulted in a revised relationship with the American National Red Cross, Berrien County chapter. A long-term fund raising partnership between BUW and Red Cross was mutually terminated in favor of a renewable annual operating agreement currently in force with all BUW agencies.

All BUW agencies will be presenting 1976 allocation requests during the first two weeks in June, and a report by the Allocations committee indicated that the 1976 goal will be set at the June meeting of the board.

Sodus Man Convicted Of Assault

A Berrien circuit court jury deliberated 28 minutes yesterday before convicting a Sodus township man of assault with a deadly weapon to end a one-day trial in Judge Julian Hughes' court.

Convicted was Lefroy Sangster, 47, of 3872 River road. He was continued free on $1,000 bond to await sentencing of up to four years in prison.

Sangster was accused of assaulting Robert Watson with a knife Feb. 15 at a house on Burkett street, Sodus township, during an altercation between the two. Opposing counsel were Asst. Prosecutor Scott Beatty and St. Joseph Atty. David Peterson.

No Jail Term

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Motorists caught driving with a revoked or suspended license could be released without a jail sentence under a bill approved by the House.

Malpractice Appointees

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has appointed five persons to head the state's new Malpractice Insurance Fund, which he said will make malpractice insurance available to all doctors. "With the appointment of this board of directors and its establishment of a plan of operation, I am confident that malpractice insurance will become available to all Michigan doctors," Milliken said Thursday. Appointed by Milliken were Daniel Demlow, state insurance commissioner; Allison Green, state treasurer; Dr. Brock Brush of Dearborn, chief of surgery at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit; Dr. H. Harvey Gass of Southfield, a neurosurgeon; and Odessa Komer of East Detroit, vice president for consumer and environmental affairs for the United Auto Workers Union.

Theft Victim Miffed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles J. Beringer wishes the police department would spend less time writing parking tickets and more time searching for his stolen car. "The person who stole my car must laugh every time he passes a police car," said Beringer, an unemployed truck driver who said he has received 19 parking tickets since his car was stolen March 1. "They told me I wouldn't have to pay for the tickets," he said.

bilateral relationship with the United States.

The President met for 45 minutes at the U.S. Embassy with one of the leaders of Portugal's new leftist military regime, Premier Vasco Goncalves. Aides said Ford told Goncalves "it would be unfortunate and somewhat incompatible with the purposes of NATO" if the Communists gained control of Portugal. They said Goncalves replied that his government does not intend to be NATO's "Trojan horse" and would not drop out of the alliance.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said the session was "very frank." Ford also met for nearly half an hour with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France after a dinner at the Royal Palace for the leaders attending the summit. White House press secretary Ron Nessen reported that five topics were discussed: Southeast Asia, American relations with Western Europe and its moves toward unification, the leftward turn of Portugal's government, assistance to the underdeveloped world and ways of getting started again on talks with the oil-exporting countries.

Giscard, who attending the dinner but boycotted the summit meeting because of France is not a full participant in NATO, told newsmen he got the impression the United States is now ready to talk about other raw materials as well as oil at the same meeting. Kissinger earlier this week announced American readiness to discuss other raw materials but proposed that it be taken up by a separate international commission.

Fulbright Still Not Sure Blacks Should Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Former Arkansas Sen. J.W. Fulbright expressed doubts in an interview about whether ensuring blacks the right to vote was the right decision.

Fulbright, a Democrat, discussed his civil rights stands during a review of his legislative career on Little Rock television station KTHV on Wednesday night. The program was filmed after Fulbright was defeated for re-election by Gov. Dale Bumpers.

James Craig, KTHV managing editor, quoted a statement made by Fulbright during his first political race in 1942: "I am not for Negro participation in our primary elections and I do not approve of social equality."

Fulbright responded that the quote was the "conventional wisdom of my state" under the conditions that existed at the time. But he said he now accepts the decision of the majority on civil rights as the law of the land.

Asked if giving blacks the right to vote was the correct decision, Fulbright said, "I guess so." Then he amended that to "I'm not too sure."

In the 1940s and 1950s that was the "most explosive question in my state and most of the South," Fulbright said. "I believed then ... that the approach of education, help, upgrading the capacity of the black people to play a significant role in our society was the proper approach, rather than passage of bills which said they were equal, without any adequate preparation for that role." Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was considered a liberal on foreign policy matters and was a sharp critic of administration policies in Vietnam. However, he usually voted with other Southern senators on civil rights.

Craig asked Fulbright about his signing of the Southern Manifesto in 1956, which declared opposition to the 1954 Supreme Court decision ruling separate but equal public school facilities unconstitutional.

"I was the representative of a state with a clear majority of people who were against the civil rights bills ... and they had demonstrated that not only in my own elections but in others ..." he said.

Federal Reserve Board Halts Planned Cassopolis Bank Sale

CASSOPOLIS — The Federal Reserve board has rejected, at least temporarily, a bid by the Michigan National Corp., the state's largest bank holding firm outside the Detroit area, to buy the Commercial National bank of Cassopolis for $6.05 million.

The acquisition has been in the planning stage for nearly a year.

Commercial National is the former Commercial Savings bank of Cassopolis, which was chartered under Michigan law.

The planning involved re-chartering Commercial Savings as a national bank to fit into Michigan National pattern of licensing and the Lansing-based chain sending in one of its representatives, Raymond Rumer, of Grand Rapids, to be the active manager. In the move, Foss Dougherty, former chief operating officer, moved up to board chairman.

The Fed expressed disapproval with Michigan National's proposal to borrow all but $50,000 of the purchase price to be paid to Commercial National stockholders. The Lansing group, declared the Fed, should instead use its financial resources "primarily for strengthening those subsidiaries still in need of capital rather than for expansion purposes."

Stanford C. Stoddard, Michigan National's chairman, expressed outrage at the decision.

Claiming his firm had been conserving cash for a year in anticipation of the purchase, he snorted to reporters in an interview, "Do we have to be three times the size of National City bank or Bank of America?" National City and Bank of America vie continually for the 1-2 size spot among U.S. banking institutions.

The Fed's action cancels an earlier approval from the Comptroller of the Currency, the direct regulatory agency supervising nationally chartered banks.

U.S. law requires nationally chartered banks to belong to the Federal Reserve system. The refusal to continue an enlarged Michigan National, via purchase of Commercial National, within the system effectively stymies the acquisition.

Commercial National's latest report shows $46 million in total assets.

It has branch offices at Constantine, Edwardsburg, Niles, Union and White Pigeon.

Watervliet Will Pick 3 From 11 For Board

WATERVLIET — Voters in the Watervliet school district will be asked to choose three school board members from among 11 candidates and decide the fate of a 15-mill property tax renewal levy during the district's annual election, June 9.

Two of the three school board openings are regular four-year positions. The other is a two-year portion of a four-year post left vacant by the death of Ervin Isbrecht in April.

Seeking election to the two regular four-year terms are George Lawton and Mary Louise Long, both incumbents, and Ronald Baiers, John H.

Brule, Jane Marie Hiler and Muriel S. Lord. The top two vote getters will be the winners.

Five newcomers are seeking the two-year vacancy. They are Glenda Janice Isbrecht, widow of the late board member, Gordon W. Krell, Cheryl E. Lange, David F. Shokes and Alton C. Wendzel.

If the voters approve the millage renewal proposal, the levy would be for three years. It was part of the district's 1974 total rate of 28.08 mills.

One mill would generate approximately $31,000 in tax monies meaning that the 15 would provide about $465,000, according to Supt. Samuel Gravitt. The district preliminary budget for the 1975-76 year is $1,986,290.

A brief description of individual candidates for the school board positions, with the regular term candidates coming first, follows:

A senior process engineer for the Watervliet Paper company, Lawton, 38, is running for a second four-year term. He has served as president of the board for the last three years. He and his wife, Beverly, have four children and they reside at 200 East Parsons avenue, Watervliet.

Mrs. Long, 44, has been secretary for seven of the eight years she has been on the board. Employed as a substitute teacher, she and her husband, John, have three children. The Longs live at 94 Beechwood Circle, Watervliet.

Baiers, 40, is a farmer and lives on Territorial road in Bainbridge township. He and his wife, Carolyn, have four children.

A retired Watervliet postmaster, Brule, 63, now works part-time as a bus driver for the school district. He and his wife, Maxine, live at route 2, box 44, Red Arrow highway, and have one daughter. Mrs. Brule is principal of the Washington elementary school in the Coloma school system.

Mrs. Hiler, 44, is a special education teacher for the Berrien county juvenile center in Berrien Springs. She and her husband, Vernon, have five children and reside at route 2, box 246, Territorial road, Watervliet.

Mrs. Lord and her husband, the Rev. Harvey Lord, live at 261 South Main street, Watervliet, and the couple are the parents of seven children. Mrs. Lord, 46, was secretary of a PTA while the couple was living in Connecticut.

Mrs. Isbrecht, route 4, box 251, Empire road, Benton Harbor, is a housewife and mother of three daughters. She is 46-years-old and a former vice president of the elementary PTO.

Krell, 46, is employed at the Berrien county health department. He and his wife, Eleanor, have a son. Mrs. Krell is Watervliet township treasurer. The Krells reside at route 1, box 946, Blatchford road, Watervliet.

Mrs. Lange, 27, and her husband, Walter, have two sons and live at route 2, box 398, North Branch road, Watervliet. She is employed as substitute physical education teacher.

A production control supervisor for Shepherd Products, Inc., in St. Joseph, Shokes, 34, lives at 431 Riverside drive, Watervliet. He and his wife, Patricia, have two sons.

Wendzel, 44, route 2, North Branch road, Watervliet, is the owner of Greg Orchard farms. He is also president of the Cribbs elementary school district. He and his wife, Carolyn, have two children.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the South elementary school.

Berrien Tax Board Sets Portions Of 15-Mill 'Pie'

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien county tax allocation board last night formally adopted the division of the 15-mill property tax pie that it had tentatively set up earlier.

The millage shares for 1975 are: Schools, 8.376 mills; county, 5.425 mills; townships, 1 mill; Intermediate school district, .199 of a mill.

The Watervliet, Coloma and Niles school districts will be allowed to levy 9.376 mills, one mill more than other districts, because of a constitutional provision. The provision allows school districts that cross county lines to levy millage at the highest rate available in any unit in the district. Because the one-mill share for townships is not levied in cities in these three districts, the schools there can spread an extra mill over their entire districts.

Only two units of government appeared before the board to appeal for additional shares of millage. Watervliet township asked for one-half mill more and Coloma township asked for an unspecified additional share. Both said the need to provide more local services was the basis for their requests. Both failed to win board approval.

More Woes For Detroit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit, already on the brink of fiscal disaster, may have to pick up an additional $609,500 a year to pay the entire salaries of Recorder's Court judges. Wayne County has been funding more than half the salaries, but the state Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that county residents may not be taxed to pay for any part of the judges' salaries. The court said a state law, in effect for more than half a century, does not legally apply to Detroit. The law permits cities with existing municipal courts to have judges' salaries paid largely by the county, instead of by the state.

Van Buren's Tax Board Confirms '75 Allocation

LAWRENCE — The Van Buren tax allocation board yesterday confirmed a preliminary decision to retain for 1975 the same split of the allocated tax rate as last year.

The split gives 5.25 mills to the county, one mill to townships, 5.85 mills to the schools, and .17 mill to the intermediate school district. The South Haven and Gobles school districts will also as they have in the past, receive one additional mill because they are city-based districts extending into Allegan county.

Mattawan, although affiliated with the Van Buren intermediate district, receives its allocated millage, 9 mills, from the Kalamazoo county tax allocation board.

Van Buren county's 1975 budget of $2.7 million is based on a property tax allocation of 5.75 mills. By receiving 5.25 mills, the drop in anticipated revenue is expected to be $148,000, according to Finance Chairman Gerald Rendel. He predicted any budget cuts which might be necessary would not be made until October, when commissioners have a better idea of how actual expenditures have gone.

Hartford School Race Attracts Six Candidates

HARTFORD — Six candidates, including a write-in candidate, are seeking election to two, four-year school board terms in the June 9 school election.

The school board is also seeking the renewal of an eight-mill property tax levy that expired with the last tax collections.

The candidates are, William Austin and Harold (Jack) Leach, both school board incumbents, and challengers James Clayton Bell, David Heater and Theodore Johnson, and write-in candidate, Jack Rose.

The proposed three-year tax levy, based on a school district tax base of $28,591,095, would raise about $231,428 in local tax revenues, or about 10 per cent of the school's tentative, 1975-76 budget of $1,939,294.

Last year's school district tax base was $25,241,120, and the district levied only six of the eight mills it could have levied. Those six mills raised about $151,446 in local taxes towards a budget of $1,790,960.

If the eight-mill proposal is approved, the school district would have the authority to levy 32.25 tax mills this coming year, compared to the 30.25 mills it levied this past year.

In the races for the school board seats, Austin is seeking his first full term and Leach his third.

Austin, 34, route 2, 62nd avenue, was elected to a one-year term in 1974. He is vice-president of Dowd orchards and he and his wife, Doris, have three children.

Leach, 53, route 1, has served on the school board 10 years. He is employed at the Hartford branch of Neil's Automotive and he and his wife, Irene, have a daughter.

Bell, 30, route 1, Red Arrow highway, has lived in Hartford for about three years and has been employed at Whirlpool. He is unmarried, and lives with his mother.

Heater, 39, route 1, Hartford, farms and has been employed at the Bendix corporation in St. Joseph for about 17 years. He and his wife, Sue, have five children and have lived for about 10 years in Hartford.

Johnson, 39, 114 East Oak street, has been employed at Whirlpool for 20 years. He and his wife, Donna, have two children and have lived in Hartford for about 3½ years.

Rose, 47, 108 Church street, is a write-in candidate. He is a pharmacist at Watervliet Community hospital. He and his wife, Peggy, have four children.

Grants Awarded To Airport

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven has received grants from federal and state agencies for its airport, according to City Manager Albert Pierce.

The Federal Aeronautics commission has approved a $19,908 grant to develop a master plan study of the airport for future use. The study, to be undertaken by a Minneapolis, Minn. firm, will cost $30,000 with both the city and the Michigan Aeronautics commission paying $5,000.

The Michigan Department of Highways has approved a $25,000 matching grant for reconstructing the northeast 1,085 foot runway and turnaround under its airport development aid program. The city will be expected to match the grant.

Recall Termed 'Formality'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The legislature has recalled a bill raising unemployment benefits for some 450,000 unemployed workers in order to rework it to meet a compromise reached by the governor and legislative leaders. The recall is a necessary formality following the compromise. The measure whizzed through the legislature, but Gov. William Milliken threatened to veto the measure, saying the $30, across the board hike in benefits would be too costly to business.

IRS Tax Evasion Charges

New Buffalo Pair Guilty

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS — A New Buffalo couple has pleaded guilty in federal district court here to three counts of willful failure to file federal income tax returns.

According to U.S. Attorney Frank Spies, George and Carol Kimmel, 1212 West Detroit street, New Buffalo, were released on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond each after entering their pleas before Federal District Court Judge Noel P. Fox, Wednesday.

A spokesman for the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue service in Grand Rapids said the Kimmels were charged with failure to file income tax returns on gross income amounting to $155,088 in 1968; $117,642 in 1969; and $101,809 in 1970.

The IRS spokesman said that during those years the Kimmels operated and owned the Kimmel Oil company in Knox, Ind., and a truck brokerage firm in the Knox area.

No date for sentencing has been set, according to a federal court spokesman.

'Poor' Hawks Also Draft Webster, Willoughby

Thompson Awaits ABA Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — David Thompson, with an opportunity to sign one of the most lucrative contracts in pro basketball history, says he plans to wait until next month's American Basketball Association draft before choosing between the ABA and the National Basketball Association.

Until then, the Atlanta Hawks, who made the exhilarating Thompson the No. 1 pick in the NBA draft Thursday, probably will not decide how much to offer their two other outstanding selections, Marvin Webster and Bill Willoughby.

"It's a great thrill to be the first player picked, and as to where my future lies, I have to wait until the ABA and then weigh all matters as to what team or league I'll be playing in," Thompson said following his selection by the Hawks. "I'm happy that Atlanta drafted me, but I just enjoy basketball and will be happy playing anywhere."

The Hawks likely will be battling the ABA's Denver Nuggets for Thompson's services. The Nuggets have the ABA's No. 1 pick and they already have been openly courting the three-time All-American and two-time Player of the Year, apparently having made some tempting cash overtures.

The agile 6-foot-1 star from North Carolina State spent several days with the Nuggets late in the ABA season.

"David seemed to like our organization and I think he has reached a pretty good understanding," said Nuggets' forward Bobby Jones. "Of course, I don't want to say anything that would hamper the deal ... I'd say Denver is fairly close, but strange things happen when a player is negotiating."

Atlanta, meanwhile, is in a precarious position because of its financial woes, although owner John Wilcox expressed confidence that the Hawks could afford to sign Thompson, Webster and Willoughby.

The problems, if any, could be solved by Wilcox selling the team to more financially stable owners, or as has been speculated, the Hawks trading Webster and Willoughby to the New York Knicks for forward Phil Jackson and $1 million.

The latter deal, of course, would provide the Hawks with sufficient money to afford Thompson.

At present, however, they have the luxury of all three players.

The 7-0 Webster, a two-time College Division All-American and twice winner of the College Division Player of the Year known as "The Human Eraser," was the Hawks' second pick on the first round and the third player selected over-all in the draft.

Willoughby, a 6-8 forward who averaged 33 points and 22 rebounds per game last season at Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, N.J., was the first player chosen on the second round.

Willoughby was the second high school player ever drafted by the NBA.

The first was 6-10 Darryl Dawkins from Maynard Evans High in Orlando, Fla. He was taken by the Philadelphia 76ers on the first round — the fifth player chosen over-all.

Dawkins, who averaged 25.9 points per game in his senior year, said his goal was to get a seven-year, no-cut contract exceeding $1 million. "I will get that," he said confidently, adding that he was to fly to Philadelphia today and sign with the 76ers.

One selection, however, left NBA officials in a quandry. That was New Orleans' pick on the 10th round of Aleksander Belov of the Soviet Union. Simon Gourdine, the NBA's deputy commissioner, said an investigation of the constitution would have to be made to determine Belov's eligibility.

Meanwhile, two player trades were completed. Kansas City sent forward Ron Behagen to New Orleans for the Jazz' second choice in the first round — center-forward Bill Robinson of DePaul — and champion Golden State surrendered its second picks in rounds one and two to Cleveland for forward Dwight Davis.

The Warriors also reportedly are ready to deal forward Derrek Dickey and guard Jeff Mullins for guard Norm Van Lier of Chicago. There also have been rumors of another trade involving Van Lier, with him going to Portland for guard Geoff Petrie.

Among the other players drafted were All-American David Meyers of UCLA and Junior Bridgeman of Louisville by Los Angeles; Alvan Adams of Oklahoma by Phoenix; Lionel Hollins of Arizona State by Portland; Rich Kelley of Stanford by New Orleans; All-American Luther "Dicky" Burden of Utah and 1973-74 NCAA scoring champion Larry Fogie by New York; Kevin Grevey of Kentucky by Washington; and Joe Meriwether of Southern Illinois by Houston.

In 10 rounds of drafting, 175 players were chosen. Of 17 players on the hardship list, 15 were taken.

Dr. D Shuns Illegal 'Pay'

Dawkins First Prep Drafted By NBA

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Darryl "Dr. D" Dawkins says he received a number of illegal offers from college basketball coaches hoping to persuade him not to join the pros directly from high school.

"I was offered a car (a Cadillac)," Dawkins told the Orlando Sentinel Star Thursday. "I was offered money. Sixty dollars a week. Then $150 a week. One of them even offered me a new outfit (street clothes) every game."

It is illegal for colleges to offer players inducements beyond tuition, books and $15 monthly laundry money.

The 18-year-old, 6-foot-10 Evans High School star said he will sign a contract today with the Philadelphia 76ers. The team selected Dawkins in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft Thursday.

"Yeah, I thought for awhile it was great," Dawkins said, reflecting on the tempting college offers. "But then I realized that if I took it, it might mean probation for the team and for me."

Dawkins credited Evans basketball Coach Fred Pennington with helping him to view the college offers in the proper perspective.

"I told him the Cadillac was worth, what, ten thousand? Eleven thousand?" said Pennington. "I told him that wasn't worth the chance; that it would be a drop in the bucket one of these days."

Dawkins, who averaged 25.9 points a game this year in leading his team to the Florida

AAAA crown, refused to disclose details of the 76ers' contract.

But he said his goal was to get a seven-year, no-cut pact totaling more than $1 million, and indications were "I will get that."

The 245-pound player said he decided to join the pros because "I wanted to put my mother in a nicer home and I saw this as a chance to do it earlier. I felt I just have to do what I think is best for my family."

Harriet Dawkins, who has four other children, was to fly to Philadelphia with her son for the contract signing.

Dawkins is the first player to be drafted directly from high school to the NBA. Another high school star, Bill Willoughby of Englewood, N.J., was the second-round draft choice of the Atlanta Hawks.

Last year, Moses Malone became the first player ever to skip college and turn pro when he joined the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association.

Pistons Boost Guard Spot, Draft Walter Luckett No. 1

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons made a move to bolster their guard corps Thursday by drafting seven back court men in the 1975 National Basketball Association college draft.

The Pistons, who are trying to trade guard Dave Bing before the 1975-76 season begins, selected Walter Luckett of Ohio University as their first pick on the second round.

Luckett, the 27th player drafted, is a junior hardship case from Ohio University. He holds the all-time career scoring mark at the school and averaged 25.2 points per game last season.

The Pistons also drafted eight other players, six of them guards. Among them were Pete Trgovich from national champion UCLA; Clifford Pratt of Shaw College of Detroit; Allen Spruill of North Carolina State A&T; Ike Williams of Armstrong State, Georgia; John Kelly of Dillard University, New Orleans; and Mickey Fox of St. Mary's University, Nova Scotia.

The Pistons took Michigan State captain Lindsay Hairston in the fourth round. University of Detroit captain Terry Thomas was picked ninth. Both are forwards.

"I'm pleased with our selections considering where we picked," said Pistons coach Ray Scott. "We went into the draft wanting to boost our guard position, and we did just that."

"He was the No. 1 guy," Scott said of Luckett. "He was the guy we were going for."

"This is what I've always wanted to do," Luckett said. "I started training last night ... I'll be ready."

The Pistons did not have a first-round selection because they traded that pick to the New York Knicks in a trade for Howard Porter last December.

Other state players drafted included Dan Roundfield of Central Michigan, who was taken the second round by the Cleveland Cavaliers. Teammate Jim McElroy was picked by the New Orleans Jazz in the third round and Michigan's C.J. Kupec went to the Los Angeles Lakers in the fourth round.

Other former Detroiters picked in the draft; Larry Fogie of Canisius and formerly of Detroit was chosen by New York in the second round, Cyrus Mann of Illinois State went to Boston in the fourth round and Robert Hawkins of Illinois State went to Golden State in the third round.

The Pistons tried to draft Moses Malone during the fourth round of the draft, but league officials rejected the bid.

Simon Gourdine, NBA deputy commissioner, turned down the bid on grounds that the young forward's collegiate class has not yet graduated and the fact that Malone had not applied as a hardship case in the NBA.

Malone, a 6-foot-11 forward from Petersburg, Va., was drafted by the American Basketball Association's Utah Stars last season and became an immediate sensation in the league after signing a lucrative contract.

Before joining the Stars, Malone was scheduled to attend the University of Maryland, having signed a grant-in-aid with the school.

Jazz 'Gambling' On Russian Ace

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — One team official joked that the New Orleans Jazz may have to send Henry Kissinger to sign their last pick in the National Basketball Association college draft, but Bill Bertka said he's very serious about the choice.

The Jazz chose Aleksander Belov, the man who scored the disputed winning goal for Russia in the 1972 Olympics, in the 10th round of Thursday's draft.

It was the first time in the history of American professional basketball that a Russian had been drafted.

"There are already many athletes from other countries in other sports," said Bertka, vice president in charge of basketball operations. "It looks like all the hockey players are from Canada."

"Leagues tend to fall into patterns, and we have to start looking for ways to break that pattern."

"Belov will be notified of his selection in the NBA draft just as any player is notified."

Bertka then placed a call to Jim Fox, the Amateur Athletic Union official who organized competition in the United States for the Russian national team.

He asked Fox for Belov's address, then laboriously spelled it out — "Sportkomitet Moskva."

"I would think the team's major problem would be with the Soviet government, if Belov wants to play in the United States," Fox said.

"In my opinion, it will be difficult, although there are two Russians on the professional tennis tour," he said he did not know the names of the tennis players.

Simon Gourdine, the NBA's deputy commissioner, said the league would have to conduct an investigation of the league's constitution to determine whether Belov would be able to play in the NBA.

"We've checked him out," Bertka said. "He's a graduate of the Shipbuilding Academy, so he's eligible."

Others in the Jazz organization treated the signing more lightly.

"Everybody's talking about ways to promote international relations, but we're doing something about it," said Coach Bill van Breda Kolff. "You could say we're doing this for President Ford."

"We're going to send Henry Kissinger over to get him to sign the contract," said another Jazz official.

"If the team can't use him, I can," said Andrew Martin, Jazz president. Martin operates a fleet of oilfield supply boats. "I can always use a graduate of a shipbuilding school."

New League Offering Old WFL Creditors Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Creditors of the old World Football League have been offered a settlement on outstanding debts that will pay them 1½ per cent of the new league's gross revenues for the next 12 years.

WFL President Chris Hemminger, in a telephone interview from his New York office, said Thursday the offer was made to creditors even though the new league has no legal responsibility to pay off such outstanding debts.

However, the new league is on more firm financial ground than was the WFL of 1974, he said, and "our plan is to pay off the debts of the old league. The only reason we made this offer was to create an environment in which a new league can survive."

"We don't have any legal responsibility to those creditors," Hemminger said. "We don't have to offer them anything but we feel that to develop this league in the future ... we might have a credibility problem."

Hemminger said the plan is based on financial projections that he termed "conservative but realistic." He said the league would have "a weighted average of 16 teams with a weighted average of $4 million per team over the next 12 years. That means there would be a total of $64 million in revenues and at 1½ per cent per year, that is payment of $960,000 a year. Now, over 12 years, that is payment of nearly $12 million and that exceeds substantially the outstanding obligations to creditors. Payments would be terminated in 12 years."

Hemminger explained that the old WFL no longer exists. "We simply bought the name, from them. We knew there were some severe financial problems ... but this league is technically called The New League, Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation."

TERRY VOOGD
Resigns At Watervliet

Voogd Quits As Panther Cage Coach

WATERVLIET — Terry Voogd, who produced Watervliet high school's only winning basketball team in the past 18 years, has resigned as the Panthers' varsity coach.

Announcement of Voogd's resignation was made Thursday by athletic director Jerry Barchett, who said the school currently is accepting applications for the position.

In four years at Watervliet, Voogd's teams won 25 games while losing 56 — a .308 average. The Panthers' 13-8 record during the 1973-74 season was the school's only winning season since 1957.

Voogd came to Watervliet from Lawrence, where in five years his teams posted a 66-27 record and won two conference championships.

Lancers, Eddies District Favorites Girls Softball Unpredictable

Most people will agree there isn't a more exciting time in sports than tournament time. Combine that excitement with the unpredictability of girls' softball and this Saturday's district play should be something else.

Several area teams including Lakeshore in Class B and Edwardsburg in Class C can be rated as favorites in their respective districts. Benton Harbor could be the sleeper in the Class A district to be played at Plangger's Field Saturday.

The Tigers start off the day at 10 a.m. against Kalamazoo Central, a squad that beat Benton Harbor in the latter part of the season, 21-18. The big bright spot in the contest though, was the pitching of Dorothy Logan.

With Central ahead, Logan was brought in from her short-stop position to pitch and responded by shutting the Maroon Giants out the rest of the way. She will most likely get the starting role on Saturday.

Debbie Martin leads the Tigers in hitting with a .878 average. Third sacker, Barbara Willis is also hitting a lofty .607. They will have to face the ace of Central's staff, Julie Highfield, a pitcher who hasn't lost a game this season.

In the other game at Plangger's, two old foes in Portage Central and Portage Northern will face each other. The winners of the morning and afternoon contests will play for the district crown at 3:00 p.m.

Lakeshore takes on South Haven in the first game of the Class B Buchanan district. The Lancers are 13-4 on the year and are led by the .652 batting average of Jodi Rabbers. Patty Hoge will probably get the start.

South Haven sports a 6-4 record with Laurie Hill pitching all the Rams' games this season. They trounced Three Rivers in the pre-district, 16-3.

It will be the rubber game of a three-game series for Brandywine and Buchanan in the afternoon game. Brandywine won the first contest, 14-13, on its home diamond and the Bucs took a 13-7 game on their field.

Powerful Edwardsburg takes on Eau Claire in the second game of the Class C Berrien Springs district. The Eddies were beaten by Lakeshore for their only loss in 15 decisions. Eau Claire is 4-4 on the season.

It will be the hitting of Lake Michigan Catholic against the defense of River Valley in the first game. The Lakers unloaded against Cassopolis in their pre-district game, 28-3, with Carol Lawrence smashing three home runs.

The Mustangs (7-1) play about the best defense in the area, having committed three or less fielding errors in four of their games this season.

Hartford won't be able to field an entire team because of injuries, reports Indian coach, Barb Wokcik, so Kalamazoo Christian receives a bye and is in the finals of the Class C district at Bloomfield.

Marcellus shouldn't have too much trouble with Kalamazoo Hackett in the afternoon contest. The young Wildcats have five girls hitting over .600 including their starting pitcher, Karen Motter, who is hitting .680.

The Irish won their first game of the season last Saturday, beating Decatur in the pre-district game.

There are three teams entered in the Class D district at Bridgman. Lawrence (8-3) and winless Galien play in the first game with Bridgman taking on the winner at 3:00 p.m.

All district winners will advance to regional play next Saturday.

NY's Maddox Gets Revenge Swats Four Hits To Whip Rangers, Martin

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — New York's Elliott Maddox just circled the Yankees' dressing room for 10 minutes and grinned.

He had struck a mortal blow in his running feud with Texas Rangers' Manager Billy Martin but refused to gloat.

Maddox slugged four hits, collected four RBIs and delivered a game-winning two-run double in the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Yankees a 7-5 victory over the Rangers, who gave up on him a year ago.

It was the only game played in the major leagues Thursday night.

NEW SPIRITS COACH: Rod Thorn (left) poses with Spirits of St. Louis president Harry Woltman Thursday after being named to replace Bob MacKinnon as head coach of the American Basketball Association team. (AP Wirephoto)

Maddox was embroiled in a baseball controversy with Martin in spring training and it carried over into the regular season last week when Texas visited New York City. Maddox was knocked down and claimed that was done on Martin's orders.

Maddox was asked how it felt to gain a measure of revenge on Martin and the Rangers.

"It's always nice to come back and haunt a team that gave up on you," he said. "I think the bean ball thing is over ... I hope so."

The New York center fielder, whom Rangers' management claimed could neither field nor hit before he was traded, went into the game with one hit for his last 20 times at bat.

"The team made fun of me in the locker room Wednesday night after we beat Kansas City and I just had to laugh," Maddox said. "The irony of the entire thing is that I broke out of the slump against the Rangers."

"I hit two line drives right at somebody, was robbed on two other balls and had a line drive bounce off the pitching rubber right into the second baseman's hands against Kansas City. I was really getting frustrated. I just had to get a hit for a change."

It was the eighth victory in the last 11 games for the streaking Yankees and the sixth loss in a row for the sagging Rangers.

Maddox opened his evening with a triple to score Bobby Bonds, followed with two singles, after a groundout, and slashed the clutch double to score Sandy Alomar and Bonds.

Starters Pat Dobson of the Yanks and Clyde Wright of the Rangers were shelled and Dick Tidrow picked up the mound victory in relief. Rookie Jim Umberger was saddled with the loss.

Tiger Bats Again Club Cincinnati

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe the Detroit Tigers are in the wrong league.

For the second time this year, the Bengals have stopped the Cincinnati Reds in an exhibition game. The Reds, who take a seven-game winning streak to St. Louis tonight and who follow National League West leader Los Angeles by 1½ games, were dropped 8-2 by Detroit on Thursday night.

The Tigers, two games below .500, are trying to end a two-game losing streak and need a string of victories to keep pace in the American League East.

Some 28,593 fans watched the contest, with proceeds, estimated at $90,000, going to help sandlot baseball.

Detroit got 10 hits in the game, including Gene Michaels' two-run homer which topped a four-run rally in the fourth inning. Aurelio Rodriguez got two doubles.

Cincinnati used five pitchers. Loser Pat Darcy allowed the first run in the second inning when Rodriguez doubled down the left field line.

In the fourth inning, Detroit tallied when Leon Roberts scored on a wild pitch. Then, Rodriguez clubbed a Pedro Borbon fast ball to score Nate Colbert. Michaels' homer came one out later.

Detroit added two more in the fifth on singles by John Knox and Ben Oglivie and a triple by Dan Meyer. Knox singled in Ron LeFlore in the sixth.

Ray Bare was the starter and winner for Detroit. He pitched five scoreless innings and yielded four hits.

Gene Pentz, brought up from Detroit's Montgomery farm club for the game, allowed the first Cincinnati run in the sixth. Caesar Geronimo tripled and scored when George Foster smacked a two-out single.

US Captures Walker Cup

'Strongest' Yank Golfers Register Easy Win

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — The 10-strong U.S. Walker Cup squad, ecstatic over its 19½-8½ victory over Britain on the famed St. Andrews old course, arrives in Liverpool Friday on a quest for more honors in the British Amateur Championship starting Monday.

The win, the 22nd by the U.S. against Britain, was by the biggest margin since the competition extended to 24 matches 12 years ago.

U.S. non-playing Captain Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., said afterwards it was because of the squad's depth.

"Man for man, it was probably the strongest team we have brought here," he said. "It was solid right through."

But not until midway through Thursday afternoon's singles did the U.S. appear headed for a rout. The team came into the second round an 8-4 lead, then picked up two of the four four-somes in the morning.

Two quick singles victories in the afternoon meant the Americans had retained the Cup with 12 wins out of the scheduled 24 matches.

But at that time Britain had pulled back two singles, was leading in three more and only just trailing in the remaining one.

It looked then as if the home team had at least an outside chance of levelling at 12-12.

At that stage Ian Hutchinson of Scotland had beaten Jerry Pate, the U.S. amateur champion from Pensacola, Fla., 3-and-2. Curtis Strange of Virginia Beach, Va., and Gary Koch of Temple Terrace, Fla., had both won easily, and John Davies of Britain was on the point of defeating George Burns of Port Washington, N.Y.

Then suddenly the remaining four Americans put on a spurt.

Bill Campbell, of Huntington, W. Va., playing his eighth Walker Cup since 1951, kept his record of never having lost a Cup singles by holing a 12-footer on the 12th to take a lead he never lost against Dick Eyles. Campbell won 2-and-1.

John Grace of Fort Worth, Tex., trailing Charlie Green, suddenly streaked ahead to win 3-and-1. And Vinny Giles, of Richmond, Va., at one time three holes down against Peter Hedges, clawed his way back to halve the match.

That gave the United States 5½ against Britain's 2½ in the afternoon singles.

Reformed Romps

Rog Izenbaard, Dave Kett, Ron VanDonselaar and Jerry Dykstra all socked three hits to pace Christian Reformed to a 16-0 rout of Zion Thursday night in a St. Joseph Church league softball contest.

Roger Nyland, who tripled, chalked up the shutout in the four-inning game.

Pierce Tiger First Sacker

Oriole Hurler Reynolds Obtained In Trade

DETROIT (AP) — First baseman Nate Colbert may disappear from the starting Tiger lineup soon, with minor leaguer Jack Pierce and frizzy-haired pitcher Bob Reynolds stepping into Bengal uniforms.

Colbert, expected to substantially bolster the Tiger hitting attack, has been in a season-long slump. So, first-sacker Pierce was called up from Detroit's Evansville farm club in the American Association, where he is hitting .284 with nine home runs and 25 RBIs.

Reynolds was obtained from Baltimore in a trade for minor league hurler Fred Holdsworth, who reneged after saying in spring training he wasn't dropping out of baseball if he wasn't picked to join the Tigers.

Pitcher Tom Makowski was optioned to Evansville to make room for Reynolds.

The former Baltimore hurler was Manager Earl Weaver's bright boy last season, but fell into disfavor this year.

"He's a good pitcher — the type you usually can't get unless there is something else wrong," said Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell, alluding to the friction with Weaver. "Anytime we have a chance to get somebody who's better than what we've got we'll take it."

Reynolds, along with John Hiller and Tom Walker, could give Detroit one of the best relief squads in the league.

Pierce, who will turn 26 Monday, is expected to be in uniform tonight when another player will be cut from the roster to make room for him. Trade was acquired in a trade from the Atlanta organization on March 20.

Reynolds had a record of no wins and one loss with the Orioles this spring and an earned run average of 9.00 in seven games. Makowski had no record with the Tigers. He appeared in three games and had an ERA of 4.82.

SH Tops Comstock, Eyes League Title

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven unleashed a 12-hit attack to whip Comstock 11-3 here Thursday and move a step closer to the Wolverine conference baseball championship.

The Rams are now 11-4 in the league and can clinch at least a title share next Monday against Vicksburg in their conference finale. Comstock is now 10-4 and Vicksburg 9-5 with both having two games left.

South Haven scored three in the first and three in the second to get a running start against Comstock.

Sophomore Ken Cullum led the heavy hitting with a single, double and triple and two RBIs. Tom Capps hit a double and single and scored two runs while Mike Sweet contributed a two-run homer and single. Mike Dorman whacked a two-run single and Dan Sherman a solo homer.

Sherman took the mound win with a seven-hitter and five strikeouts.

The Rams are now 12-7 overall.

Car Wash Set

HARTFORD — The Hartford Athletic Boosters are sponsoring a car wash this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Cade's Arco Station located at the Hartford I-94 exit. Prices are $1.50 for the quick-wash and $2.50 for interior and exterior cleaning.

Catholic Wins

Terry Elter clouted a home run and John Smietanka picked up the pitching decision as St. Joseph Catholic edged First Church of God 11-8 Tuesday night in the St. Joe Men's Church League. Book had three hits for the losers.

Rowdy Americans Leave China Ailing Coach Heads Home

TOKYO (AP) — Ailing Bob Giegengack was transferred in a wheel chair from a Chinese to an American airliner in Tokyo Friday as the U.S. track and field team flew home after a two-week tour of the People's Republic of China.

He was much improved. The 68-year-old former Yale University coach awakened Friday morning in Peking, feverish and shaking, two hours before the team was to start home.

Dr. Tony Daly of Los Angeles, the team physician, treated him on the spot and then sent him to a Peking hospital in the care of another physician on the team, Dr. Harrison Brown of Palo Alto, Calif.

At the hospital, Chinese doctors made tests and suggested that Giegengack remain there for treatment.

Giegengack insisted on accompanying the American team, and after consulting both Daly and Brown, was allowed to go to the airport where he took off on the scheduled Chinese flight.

"The Chinese feared he might have pneumonia and were reluctant to let him go," Joseph Scalzo of Toledo, Ohio, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, said.

"It was my decision that he go — the Chinese did not want to take the responsibility," Scalzo said.

The team departed on Northwest Orient flight 004, due in Seattle at 7:15 a.m., PDT, Friday.

Giegengack had presided Thursday night at a dinner at which the Chinese team and administrative personnel were hosts, marking the end of the U.S. tour which included meets at Canton, Shanghai and Peking.

The dinner turned into a rowdy American celebration which brought an informal apology to the Chinese from Scalzo.

Near the end of the banquet, at which the athletes and officials toasted each other with the potent Chinese drink mao tai, some of the American athletes started table hopping, clapping and talking animatedly even while speeches were being made.

One particularly unruly competitor was picked up bodily by three husky weight men on the American team and taken to the team bus, where for a period they refused to let any other athletes on board.

"One of the Chinese officials told me that an American had commandeered the bus and would let no one on," said Dr. Leroy Walker of Durham, N.C., chairman of the AAU Track and Field Committee.

"I found that this was not true, that other members of the team were merely trying to get the athlete involved to settle down."

Scalzo said he was momentarily disturbed by the commotion and felt some uneasiness on the part of the Chinese, who held their formal banquets under more dignified circumstances.

"I explained to them that our boys are not accustomed to drinking heavy liquor at such affairs and that, plus the normal release of tension after two long weeks of training and competition, probably caused them to act they way they did."

Scalzo add, "The Chinese were very good about it. They told me not to worry, that the Americans were probably celebrating just because they had been treated so nice during the trip."

Flanagan Landed By Chargers

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions center Ed Flanagan, a former all-pro, has decided to sidestep the World Football League and has landed instead with the San Diego Chargers.

Flanagan, 31, made no secret of the fact he intended to play with the WFL's Hawaii team, but new salary figures reportedly made his pay a bit too steep for the now financially cautious WFL to handle. Hawaii allowed him to step out of the WFL pact.

"I had 10 fine years there," Flanagan said of Detroit from his Newport Beach, Calif., home. "I'm sorry to leave. But I'm living here now with my in-laws and happy to be in my native state."

"The Lions treated me well and I'm leaving under happy circumstances," he said.

Flanagan has played out his option and was allowed to leave by the Lions. Detroit General Manager Russ Thomas said he talked with San Diego coach Tommy Prothro and an agreement was reached on compensation for Flanagan. Thomas did not say whether a player, cash or a draft choice was involved.

Attorney Brian Smith said Flanagan was allowed to keep the bonus he received for signing with Hawaii.

Candidates for a new starting Lions' center include Fred Rothwell, guard Guy Dennis, tackle Gordon Jolley and rookie Steve Myers of Ohio State.

Three Share Atlanta Lead

ATLANTA (AP) — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and two of the game's top players, Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, were in agreement after the opening round of the $225,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Each talked about extremely difficult pin placements for opening day competition on the hilly, 6,863-yard par 72 Atlanta Country Club course.

And, each said they liked it. But, despite the problems it presented, the strongest field in a tournament so far this year still riddled par in the cloudy conditions that produced a heavy half-hour shower at mid-afternoon.

Irwin birdied three of his last four holes to move into a three-way share of the lead with veteran Billy Casper and Joe Imhan at six-under-par 66.

Two shots away loomed Nicklaus and Miller, along with Leonard Thompson and Jack Ewing, who had a record-tying 30 on the back nine, which he played first.

"They were the worst pin placements for a Thursday round I've ever seen," said Miller, the outspoken blond who reeled off three early victories on this year's tour. "They're not unfair, just ridiculous."

"I would not categorize them ridiculous," said Irwin. "Difficult, yes. I think courses should be made difficult."

"I thought they were very difficult," said Nicklaus. "But I like that. It's the way it should be all the time. We had 18 tough ones today."

Seven players were deadlocked at 69, three shots away. They were Lee Trevino, Danny Edwards, Bob E. Smith, Bob Goalby, Lou Graham, Grier Jones and Don Iverson.

Arnold Palmer struggled to a 79 while South African Gary Player had a 73 and Tom Weiskopf a 74.

Austin, Spuzich Top LPGA Event

BALTIMORE (AP) — Debbie Austin just missed an eagle putt on the first hole of the $55,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship, but she got even better vibrations after sending her second tee shot into the trees.

"My roommate, Sue Roberts, tells me that you know when you're going to win," said Miss Austin, who has yet to win in eight years on the tour. "When the ball rattled around the trees and rolled out, I thought it was a good omen."

"I hit a six-iron in front of the green, chipped to within eight feet, and holed the putt. It was sloppy, but I got away with it."

The bit of early luck led to a par on the second hole, and the 27-year-old went on to share the first round lead in the 21st LPGA Championship with veteran Sandra Spuzich — whose card included an eagle three.

Each shot a five-under par 68 on the municipally-owned Pine Ridge course for a two-stroke lead over Kathy Whitworth, who earlier this week became the seventh member of the LPGA Hall of Fame.

Twenty of the touring pros at least equaled par 73. Another 10 were bunched at 74, 13 more at 75, and nine at 76.

Following today's round, the top 50 scorers plus ties will survive the cutoff for the final two days of the 72-hole tournament and shoot for the $8,000 first prize.

Carol Mahn, who has finished out of the top three only once in eight previous tour stops at Pine Ridge and is always a threat before her local fans, tied for third place at 71 with Jane Blalock and JoAnn Washam.

Included in a six-way tie at 72 were Sandra Haynie, who won the LPGA title last year at Sutton, Mass.; Judy Rankin, the winner at Pine Ridge in each of the last two tour stops; and Donna Caponi Young, the most consistent performer during the first two months this season.

Suit Names Boy Scouts, Six Others

The parents of a Benton Harbor boy who lost an eye when he allegedly fell into a ditch while on a Boy Scout hike have filed a $250,000 lawsuit in Berrien circuit court against the Boy Scouts of America and six defendants.

The plaintiffs, Robert and Marianne Zook, of Maple Lane park, filed the suit on behalf of their son, Robin, who was 12 when the accident occurred in 1972.

Named defendants were the Southwestern Michigan Council of Boy Scouts; Troop 68 of Riverside; First United Methodist church of Riverside; Fred Cretors; Charles Baugher; Richard Kennedy; and the Berrien county road commission.

Cretors was identified as scoutmaster of Troop 68, Baugher as assistant scoutmaster, and Kennedy as junior assistant scoutmaster.

The suit claims Robin was injured on June 19 while on a required five-mile hike with the troop. It says he sustained an eye injury when he fell into a ditch along Pier road in Hagar township, striking his eye on some object in the ditch.

The suit contends the road commission did not maintain the ditch in a safe manner, and charges the other defendants with negligence and failing to provide for the boy's safety.

NEWS OF THE FARM, ORCHARD AND DAIRY

Covering The Greatest Diversified Fruit Producing Area In America

BH Market Loses Free Inspection, Cuts Ads

The Food Inspection division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture won't make inspectors available for free to the Benton Harbor Fruit Market this year. Also, plans call for a Saturday market this season.

On another front, the market board has voted to stop advertising in big out-of-state newspapers and cut the market's advertising costs from $16,000 to about $1,000.

In years past the inspection division made one or two men available at the market to handle inspection of fruits and vegetables, according to Carl Johnson, regional supervisor.

Because of budget cuts to the division, the free service will be withdrawn, Johnson said. The division will still be happy to provide the service, but the market must pay for it. Inspectors would cost the market $180 per 40 hour week, he said.

Johnson said that a full-time man, paid by the market, would be present all the time and would likely improve the inspection services.

He added that the withdrawal has no connection with complaints aired during grower meetings this winter. At those meetings growers said that if inspection of unclassified fruit brought to the market was tougher the produce would bring higher prices.

Market Manager Al Braudo

said that if the market has to hire inspectors, charges for grower loads will have to increase. He estimated that the market would have to spend about $240 a week to keep men on hand.

Benton Harbor City Manager Charles Morrison explained the cut in advertising funds by saying advertising didn't increase business last year. Last year the city paid $8,000 for advertising the market. This figure was matched by the state for a total expenditure of $16,000.

Morrison said that the advertising that was placed in daily newspapers last year was for Michigan produce first and the Benton Harbor market second. The board decided the money allocated to the market could be better spent.

The city will spend some $1,000 in advertising this year, placing ads in publications which buyers are likely to read. And they will allocate $6,000 to the market which will be used for painting and repairing the facility, according to Braudo.

Morrison added that the board will study the problems involved in the withdrawal of free inspectors.

7-DAY MARKET

Braudo said that the market will be open seven days a week this year. In the past the market has been closed on Saturdays. "I hope this will bring in more day buyers on Saturday to the benefit of all who handle perishable items, such as strawberries," he explained.

A seven-day-a-week market was suggested by Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan during the winter meetings, already mentioned, Braudo said.

And the market will open at 9 a.m., at least through the strawberry season, said the market manager.

Strawberry Outing Set For June 8

Strawberry buyers, growers, processors, package makers and bankers will be getting together to play golf and swap information during the Southwestern Michigan strawberry outing June 8, says Glen Antle, extension marketing agent.

Growers, package manufacturers and bankers, assisted by extension agents, will host fresh and processing market strawberry buyers at the Wyndwike Country club, St. Joseph.

The golf course has been reserved from noon to 1 p.m. for tee-off for members of the outing, Antle said. And those who leave their woods and irons at home can visit strawberry fields and facilities for packing, pre-cooling and marketing.

Using one bus for a great tour will be eliminated this year in favor of more individualized trips led by extension agents. Cars will leave from the course at 2:30 p.m.

Afternoon activities at the course will be followed by a social hour at 5:30 at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn. Then a buffet dinner will be served and at 8:15 an information meeting will begin.

At the information session marketing conditions and outlooks will be presented and an updated study showing the costs of growing and harvesting strawberries will be provided by MSU Agricultural Economist Myron Kelsey.

Antle estimates that 125 persons will attend the outing. Each grower who attends is a contributor of $25. It is a self-help program where grower, shipper and broker exchange information and ideas directly with both fresh and processing buyers.

Last year 113 persons were present for the day's fun and in 1973 91 people were on hand, he added.

Crew Leader, Employer, Sued By Migrants

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Four migrant farmworkers are suing a crew leader and the owners of a Dryden, Mich., mushroom farm in the U.S. District court in Flint.

The suit is the first in the state to be filed under new amendments to the federal Crew Leader Registration Act, according to Atty. Richard Feferman, director of the Michigan Migrant Legal Assisstance project.

Under the amendments crew leaders and growers or businesses who hire migrants are liable for promises made to migrants during recruitment. Migrants who feel that working conditions or wages were misrepresented during recruitment may sue for damages in any federal district court.

Defendants are Pedro Trevino, a crew leader; Dryden Farms, Inc., and Marzetti Brothers, Inc. Plaintiffs are Manuel Santos, Juan Cota, Justo Ovalle and Marcello Martinez-Tapia, four Laredo, Texas, men who were allegedly recruited by Trevino for work at the mushroom plant.

The migrants claim first that Trevino is not a registered crew leader, which makes him in violation of the Act and also implicates the farm because it dealt with an unregistered crew leader.

At the time of recruitment in Laredo, early this year, Trevino promised the men a good job, good pay, good working conditions and free transportation to Michigan, the suit alleges.

He allegedly gave no information in writing, a requirement of the amended act. Nor did he explain their working conditions or housing, both of which were allegedly poor, wage rates, his service charges, the cost of food or the length of employment, according to the suit. All these things must be explained, in writing, at the time of recruitment, the Act states.

In the action plaintiffs list other alleged injustices and ask the court to "grant each of them actual damages or damages of $500 for each and every violation of the Act." Damages of $500 per violation is the maximum allowed in the act, which took effect in December of 1974.

Farmers who recruit labor themselves are exempted from the Act, Feferman said.

Corn Is In Well Ahead Of Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers are rapidly winding up planting their 1975 corn crop well ahead of schedule in a major step toward a record harvest of the important food-producing grain next fall.

By May 25, about 90 per cent of this year's intended corn acreage had been planted, according to Agriculture Department officials. Last year on the same date about 75 per cent was planted, and normal progress for May 25 is 79 per cent.

Although corn must grow and mature for the next five months, the progress made by farmers in planting the 1975 crop is in sharp contrast to problems the past two seasons when rain-swept fields delayed seedlings, washed out fields and in general reduced yields.

The department, in a weekly weather report summary released Wednesday, said corn planting in the important north central area was 91 per cent completed by May 25, far ahead of last year.

"Planting was virtually complete in Iowa; 96 per cent finished in Illinois; 95 per cent in Ohio; and 90 per cent in Indiana, Kansas and Nebraska," the report said.

"All states in this region were ahead of both the 1974 level and the average except in Nebraska where planting was 95 per cent complete in 1974."

"The report said favorable weather also boosted soybean plantings to about 50 per cent completed by May 25, compared with 30 per cent last year and the normal 36 per cent.

Other spring-planted crops, including sorghum and cotton, showed good progress by late May, officials said. Spring wheat planting which had lagged severely earlier was nearly 75 per cent completed, behind normal but ahead of the 1974 pace.

The big winter wheat crop, which provides about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat, continued in generally good condition through late May. About 9 per cent of the Texas crop was harvested by May 25, slightly ahead of average.

Farther north, the Oklahoma winter wheat crop was maturing later than usual, but in Kansas the crop was about on schedule.

Based on current estimates, the 1975 wheat crop is expected to be a record, perhaps 2.1 billion bushels or more, eclipsing the previous record of 1.8 billion set last year.

Porcupines ruin trees in the Pacific Northwest at a rate that would build 20,000 new houses a year.

Big Grain Crop May Depress Prices

If farmers stick with their March 1 plans to plant 122 million acres of feed grains, normal weather could bring a crop worth less per bushel than 1974's crop.

This prediction is made in "The Feed Situation," a report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service.

With good weather, farmers could harvest from 205 to 229 million tons of feed grains this season. A crop within that range would replenish stocks, which now stand roughly one-quarter below last year's mark.

The 1975 corn crop could total between 5.7 and 6.4 billion bushels. Production in that range could lead grain prices below present levels, the report states. In early May, No. 2 yellow corn brought $2.80 a bushel at Chicago, compared to $3.74 a bushel last October.

Last year's crop amounted to 165 million tons, a poor showing due to poor weather. Yet feed grain prices have fallen over the past half year, the report pointed out, partly because farmers cut use by feeding fewer animals.

Good Time To Start Farming

DES MOINES (AP) — There's room on the nation's farms for young men who want to make a career out of agriculture, reports Wallace Farmer, a leading rural magazine.

It says that about 25 per cent of farm-raised young men have gone into farming in recent years. After 1960, there will be room for 35 per cent to go into farming. And there will be room for 60 per cent from 1990 to 1995.

The reason is a combination of lower birth rates and the fact that a higher percentage of present farmers will retire during the next 20 years.

Factors producing the increase in opportunities can be traced back to 1940. At that time, 40 per cent of the rural male population was made up of men in the 20 to 35-year-old age bracket. Those men now are nearing retirement age and will be retiring within the next 20 years, making room for many younger farmers to take over.

Remember Re-Entry Regulations

Jordan Tatter, district horticultural agent, reminds growers of standards placing time limits on the re-entry of pesticide treated fields.

Unless workers wear protective clothing, they must wait to enter a field sprayed with most chemicals until dust applications have settled or sprays have dried.

However, 12 pesticides have longer minimum time limits. People must wait 48 hours before re-entering fields sprayed with Ethyl Parathion, Methyl Parathion, Demeton, Carbofenthothion, Metasystox-R, Endrin, Bidrin or Azodrin. At least 24 hours must pass before entering fields sprayed with EPN, Ethion, Phosalone or Guthion.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Turns Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned upward today with a lift from signs of an improving economic outlook.

The opening Dow Jones average of 20 industrials was up about a point, and gainers led losers by more than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted some delayed reaction to the government's report Thursday that a redesigned index of leading economic indicators — intended to point up future economic trends — took a big jump last month.

Another apparent plus was a further rise in the nation's money supply, as shown in weekly money and credit figures issued after Thursday's close by the Federal Reserve.

Brokers also said it appeared New York State's advancement of $200 million in funds to New York City, temporarily relieving the city's cash flow problems, had the effect of lifting a weight off the market.

Joy Manufacturing, among the early volume leaders, rose a point to 70 1/2. A 700,000-share offering by the company apparently sold out by late Thursday at $69.50 a share.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average declined 2.04 to 815 even.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about an 8-7 margin with 18.57 million shares changing hands on the Big Board.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index edged up .01 to 47.67.

BATTLE CREEK Power Firm Blasted At House Hearing

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Possible mismanagement of Consumers' Power Co. and alleged lack of public input into rate hearings were major concerns expressed by Southwestern Michigan residents at a public hearing Thursday.

Some 30 people attended the hearing, one of six being held around the state. The hearings, held by a special House subcommittee, are to help determine the effectiveness of the Public Service Commission's regulation of utility companies and rates.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Kalamazoo, chairman of the subcommittee, said the body is investigating to see if legislation is needed to protect ratepayers and promote Michigan's future energy well-being. The body was created by House action last month.

An attorney for the city of Grand Rapids, Richard A. Wendt, argued there is a definite need for legislation to aid public access and preserve the impartiality of the commission.

Wendt said "procedural deficiencies" in the PSC deny ratepayers "their constitutional right of due process of law." He also criticized the PSC for not allowing enough time to review data on proposed rate increases.

"These time limitations hinder the most important part of the PSC public hearings — the right of participation," he said.

Wendt said he supported having a consumer representative on the PSC to watchdog utility requests.

Several people at the hearing attacked the management of Consumers. John Whitman of Kalamazoo and Frederick C. Rice of Battle Creek, both linemen for the company, said the firm is top heavy.

"Before we go to repair something after a storm, one, two, or three supervisors will be there ahead of us to check the damage," Whitman said.

"By the time I get to go and repair it, the people are so mad about having us come out and do nothing that they sic their dogs on me."

Rice said new customers often told him they waited six weeks to be hooked up for service. During that time, he said, supervisors reported there was no work that needed to be done.

A nuclear engineer for Commonwealth Association, John McCarty, said rates should be allowed to increase so companies could attract investors and have capital to expand.

C.J. Beckwith of Battle Creek, a township electrical inspector, argued against added interference with Consumers.

"The government that governs best governs least," Beckwith said.

After two more hearings, the subcommittee will meet with the utilities and then hold more hearings before coming out with recommendations.

Wrong Dates Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press erroneously reported on May 22 that International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. has offered to settle a stockholder suit involving persons who bought ITT common stock between May 10, 1971 and July 30, 1971.

The shareholders involved were those who purchased ITT stock between June 17, 1971 and July 30, 1971 and sold it after July 30, 1971.

The $3.7 million settlement proposed by the company involves a 1972 class action suit filed by stockholders and nine suits by the company that grew out of the action. All of the suits concerned the conglomerate's acquisition of artificial Fibre Insurance Co.

Users May Pay For I&M Study

By DARRELL CHRISTIAN Associated Press Writer INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. may be able to pass along cost of a state-ordered management study to its customers, the chairman of the Indiana Public Service Commission said Thursday.

The study, aimed at determining if ratepayers have suffered from poor management and inefficiency, was ordered by the commission Wednesday.

The first phase is to cost no more than $65,000 and should be paid initially by I&M because the study would be beneficial to the utility, its stockholder — American Electric Power Co. — and its customers, the commission said.

Whether there will be a second phase, and how much it should cost, will be determined by the initial review.

It is the first time ever in Indiana that a public utility has been ordered by the state to submit to a management study, although similar action has been taken in other states.

PSC Chairman Larry J. Wallace said depending on results of the study, I&M may be allowed later to recover the cost from its customers.

"We're doing something we've never done before, and we want to leave ourselves as much flexibility as possible," he said.

"There has been a great lack of confidence by the public in I&M. If the study finds that they are operating efficiently, it should help bolster confidence and make rate increases more acceptable to the public."

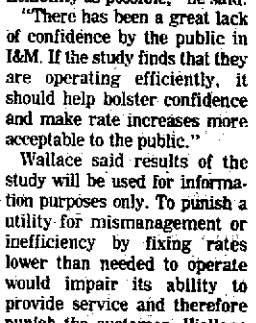

Wallace said results of the study will be used for information purposes only. To punish a utility for mismanagement or inefficiency by fixing rates lower than needed to operate would impair its ability to provide service and therefore punish the customer, Wallace said.

If mismanagement is found, the report alone should put pressure on stockholders to correct the situation, Wallace added.

Meanwhile, an I&M spokesman said the utility had "nothing to hide."

"Our books are open. We'll be more than happy to cooperate," said Warren W. Widenhofer, I&M public affairs director.

THE MALPRACTICE CRISIS — AND WHAT ABOUT US?

Where do you and I stand in today's malpractice crisis? The doctors surely have their legitimate complaints about the almost incredible upsurge in malpractice insurance rates; the insurance companies have just as legitimate complaints about astronomical awards to alleged victims of bungling, incompetence, etc.; and the lawyers can justify their fees too.

But what about us — the patients who pay the bills in the long run, no matter how well the connections are hidden? The answer, where we stand is behind the eight ball (as usual).

Are you aware, for instance, that no law guarantees you such basic rights as to be told when a treatment actually is experimental and may have serious side effects? To know what information and impressions are being recorded in your medical record? To refuse drugs or other treatment? To have privacy, for yourself or records?

The absence of these and other vital rights in the vast majority of health care institutions may be a major force behind the health care crisis spreading from coast to coast.

Effective systems of patients' rights and responsive grievance mechanisms were strongly recommended more than two years ago when a blue-ribbon Commission on Medical Malpractice reported to the then HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson. Said the report:

"Many patients are moved to litigate because they are dissatisfied with the outcome of medical treatment and have been frustrated in their efforts to obtain either explanations, advice, or even a sympathetic ear, much less redress."

What might be included in an effective list of Patients' Rights that would really help solve the malpractice crisis?

A provocative rundown is in a bill now before the Massachusetts legislature, developed by George J. Annas of the Boston University Law School's Center for Law & Health Sciences and included in a new paperback, "The Rights Of Hospital Patients" (Avon, $1.50). Under this bill, you would have the right:

- To participate fully in all decisions about your health care, to know when a treatment is experimental, what your choices are and to have a realistic evaluation of your risks.
- To the best and most prompt care available, no matter who is paying your bill, to an explanation of your bill — and immediate attention in an emergency.
- To know the name and qualifications of anyone treating you and to an interpreter if you do not speak English.
- To any information in your medical record, to take a copy of your record home, including X-rays, and to check your doctor's diagnosis with a specialist.
- To refuse any particular drug or medical procedure, to leave a hospital at any time if you sign a statement that you are leaving against your doctor's advice, or to stay until a thorough exam shows you are well enough to leave.
- To as much privacy, both for yourself and your records as can be provided, and to visitors around the clock if you are a child or terminally ill.
- To the help of a patients' rights advocate around the clock — a person whose specific job would be to make sure that you get your rights as a patient in a hospital, nursing home, etc.
- To the complete loyalty of this advocate who could be dismissed only by you and who would participate in discussion of your case, have access to your records, really help you.

This concept of a strong, effective system of patients' rights as a solution to today's malpractice explosion is neither radical nor new. As Joseph V. Terenzio, president of the United Hospital Fund of New York, put it: "The issue of patients' rights is fast revealing itself to be a main theme in the rephrasing of American health reform." Terenzio would favor, in addition to the rights cited above, strong safety programs in hospitals; strong Professional Standards Review Organizations to monitor the quality of health care; education of hospital staffs on the rights and responsibilities of patients as well as practitioners.

In Minnesota, a bill of patients' rights has become law. In Massachusetts, Annas says the bill has a "good" chance of passage and could become a powerful "antidote" to malpractice suits arising out of the patients' feeling of powerlessness in institutions.

Out of this crisis well may come a system much fairer to the medical, insurance, legal professions — and us.

Trooper Assault Draws $1 Fine

A Benton township man was fined $1 in Berrien Fifth District court after he was found guilty in a two-day trial Tuesday and Wednesday of assault and battery against State Trooper Gary Chappell last July 31.

Found guilty was Joseph D. Carter, 19, of 771 Dixie drive. The jury deliberated about four hours before reaching the verdict. Judge John Hammond then assessed a $1 fine and $39 costs.

Meanwhile, a civil suit by the defendant and a counter suit by two state troopers are still pending in district court as result of last summer's episode. On July 31, Troopers Chappell and George Tiernan, both of the Benton Harbor post, stopped a car in which Carter was riding. The traffic stop was made on M-138, near Pipestone.

Testimony by both sides indicated the troopers, after stopping the auto, were looking at a bicycle in the car's trunk when a scuffle began. Carter testified that as Trooper Chappell began pulling the bike from the trunk, Carter held a wheel. Chappell then struck him in the face with a flashlight, Carter testified.

Following the scuffle, troopers reported that Carter was treated at Mercy hospital for minor injuries. Later it was learned that Carter was the owner of the bicycle, troopers said.

Chappell testified during the trial that he was stopped from pulling the bike by the defendant, who grabbed the trooper's arm and would not let go. This is "technically" assault and battery, Hammond explained following the trial.

Both the civil suit filed in Berrien Fifth District court by Carter, and a countersuit filed by the troopers, are still pending, according to court records.

In November Carter sued Chappell and Tiernan for $10,000 damages for assault and battery, false arrest and abuse of process during the arrest. In December the troopers sued Carter for $10,000 damages, claiming assault and battery and harassment.

Patrick Murphy, assistant prosecutor, laid out the case against Carter, who was defended by Grand Rapids Attorney Alphonse Lewis, Jr.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Three Are Arrested After Disturbance

Scuffles during the arrests of a man and wife by Benton Harbor police early this morning brought additional charges of resisting arrest against the two and a third person.

Booked at the Berrien jail were Hattie Johnson, 25, of 865 Ogden street, Benton Harbor, on charges of assault and battery and disorderly person; her husband, Dale Johnson, 34, also of 865 Ogden street, on charges of resisting arrest, obstructing a police officer and disorderly person; and Isiah Fowler, 25, of 863 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, on charges of resisting arrest and obstructing a police officer.

Patrolwoman Carol Adams said she was struck in the face by Mrs. Johnson who was being arrested on a charge of fighting in a public place with her husband at 5th and Main streets.

Johnson was being placed in a patrol car.

Williamson said Fowler, who came on the scene during the arrests, grabbed for but did not get the nightstick and was subdued with mace after resisting attempts to get him into a third patrol car.

Thieves were busy in the Twin Cities Wednesday and Thursday with household goods the main targets. Reporting thefts were: —Mary Bell, 795 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, a $400 stereo. —Alice Canfield, 466 Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, clothing and handbags valued at about $200.

Craneman's Widow Asks $1.3 Million

The widow of a crane operator who was killed when the boom of the crane hit a 7,200-volt electric line in Niles in 1972 filed suit in Berrien circuit court seeking $1.3 million.

Named defendants were Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., Dico Co., Inc., of York, Pa., and Elton's, Inc., of Livonia, Mich.

The plaintiff, Helen M. Haferkamp, of Grand Rapids, claims her husband, Joel, was unloading concrete blocks with a crane on June 19 in Niles when the boom of the crane or a cable of the boom hit the high-voltage I & M electric line.

The suit contends that Dico, which manufactured the crane, and Elton's, which sold the crane to Haferkamp's employer, Nieb Concrete Products Co., Inc., failed to insulate the boom or the crane's controls. The suit also charges I & M with negligence in placing the electric line at a height of 24 feet, where large machinery could come into contact with it.

Auto Hits Utility Pole; One Hurt

A Benton Harbor man was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, this morning after his car crashed into a utility pole on M-138 between Napier and Nickerson avenues.

Driver of the car, Neil Lacy, 29, 1804 Crystal court, told Benton township police his steering apparently went out. No ticket was issued.

Benton Harbor police ticketed Charles Craft Jr., 17, of 1613 Kay drive, Benton township, for failing to stop in an assured distance when his car collided with another auto on Main street west of Riverview drive.

Driver of the other car, Louise Stubbs, 48, of 1070 East Main street, Benton Harbor, was taken to Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, but did not require treatment.

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 30, the 150th day of 1975. There are 215 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1431, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in Rouen, France.

On this date — In 1498, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain on his third voyage to the New World. In 1539, the Spanish explorer, Hernando de Soto, landed in Florida.

In 1883, a report that the new Brooklyn Bridge in New York was about to collapse created panic. Six persons on the bridge were trampled to death.

In 1942, during World War II, more than 1,100 British bombers pounded Cologne, Germany.

In 1961, the dictator of the Dominican Republic, Rafael Trujillo, was assassinated.

In 1963, an estimated 10,000 persons were killed in a windstorm which struck East Pakistan.

Ten years ago: Vivian Malone became the first black to be graduated from the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa. Five years ago: In South Vietnam, the Vietcong launched a surprise attack against the resort city of Dalat and seized parts of it.

One year ago: The House Judiciary Committee warned President Richard Nixon that he might be providing grounds for impeachment by refusing to honor committee subpoenas for Watergate tapes.

Today's birthdays: Band leader Benny Goodman is 66. Former Postmaster General James Farley is 87.

Thought for today: Humility is the solid foundation of all the virtues. — Confucius, Chinese philosopher, 551-479 B.C.

UNION CHIEF TO RETIRE

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Stulberg says he will retire as president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

William Glines Issues Statement

William I. Glines, who's position on the St. Joseph board of education is up for GRADUATES: Glenda J. Brown, a 1970 graduate of St. Joseph high school, was recently graduated from Central Missouri State university in Warrensburg, Mo., with bachelor's degree in recreation. The daughter of Mrs. Joan Brown and Robert E. Brown, both of St. Joseph, she is employed in Missouri.

election, has issued a statement in connection with his re-election bid.

Glines was unable to attend an open panel discussion Wednesday night at Milton junior high school. His two opponents, Joseph Naines and Mrs. Rosalyn Von Koenig, were there.

In a letter addressed to Richard Maxam, president of the St. Joseph Education association, which set up the discussion program, Glines outlined his position as follows:

"I am sure every constituent knows my voting record on the important issues over the last four years. If re-elected, I promise to continue efforts to bring better educational programs to St. Joseph and to maintain fiscal responsibility through a balanced budget."

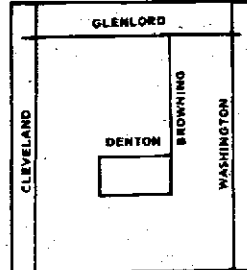

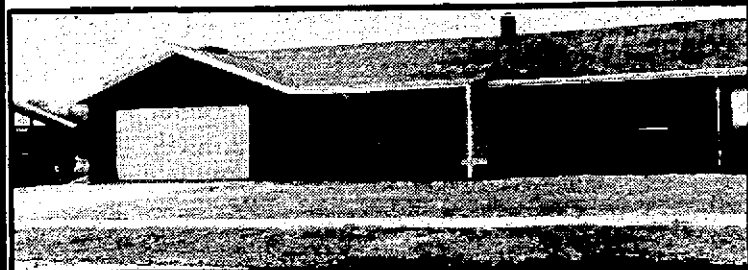

"I am proud to be a graduate of St. Joseph high school. Our system has been recognized for many decades as one of the top districts in the state. I promise to do everything in my power to maintain this level of education."
